Village to file lawsuits on unit proposal

Arlington Heights will file class action lawsuits in federal and state courts opposing the formation of the pro.posed .Elk Grove Township unit school district.

Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel was directed by the Arlington Heights Village Board Tuesday to file the suits as soon as possible.

More than 150 residents attended the board's special meeting Tuesday night in support of the village's intervention in the controversial unit district proposal, which its opponents say would harm High School Dist. 214.

THE ENTIRE Village of Arlington Heights is included in the boundaries of Dist. 214 and about 10 per cent also is part of Dist. 59, one of seven elementary school districts in the Dist. 214 area.

Unit school district opponents insist Dist. 214 would suffer through the reorganization because the new unit district would take 42 per cent of its assessed valuation and nearly 27 per cent of its students.

The unit district would combine Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 schools, Elk Grove High School in Elk Grove Village and Forest View High School in Arlington Heights under one school board and administratoin.

State Schools Supt. Joseph Cronin has ruled that the issue should be decided by a referendum April 9. According to state law, only Dist. 59 residents will be eligible to vote, although a bill to amend that law to allow Dist. 214 residents to vote is before a committee of the Illinois House of Representatives.

THE ARLINGTON Heights Village Board was asked to intercede in the issue by Gary Snell, president of the Surrey Ridge West Civic Assn., who complained that Dist. 214 is unable to oppose the unit district proposal adequately.

"Dist. 214 is playing the game by following the rules, while Dist. 59 teachers are trying to use students to influence their parents so they can make more money. It's time to take the gloves off and get the Village of Arlington Heights in it," Snell said.

Erwin Poklacki, a former Dist. 59 board member, was the only member of the audience to urge the village not to become involved in the dispute. He said it would be unfair to work for changes in laws regarding the creation of unit districts.

His arguments, however, were rebutted by Paul Kucharski, a member of the Dist. 59 board of education who said no educational benefit from the unit district has been shown.

KUCHARSKI CALLED the Dist. 59 board "the most financially irresponsible school board" in the state. "I'm ashamed to be a part of it," he said.

Siegel was cautiously optimistic that the village's lawsuits would block the April 9 referendum because of their being filed late. A Cook County Circuit Court also decided last week to not delay the special vote.

"Federal courts are very reluctant to take jurisdiction in such cases already decided in state courts. They may abstain if they decide it's a state issue. It depends on how well a federal constitutional issue could be phrased," Siegel said.

Ziggy's pal dies while exercising

CHICAGO (UPI) — Widget, a 23-year-old, 9,000-pound female African elephant who was one of the few friends of the largest, most cantankerous elephant in the world, is dead.

Brookfield Zoo officials said Widget died Monday night of heart failure.

They said a new exercise program for the four zoo elephants may have led to her death.

WIDGET WAS BEST known for being friends with the late Ziggy, a mean Asian elephant who died in October 1975.

While neighbors at the zoo, the two elephants "literally met over the back fence" and became good friends — an uncommon claim for anyone or anything to make regarding Ziggy, zoo officials said.

In March 1975, Widget was used to entice Ziggy into climbing from a zoo moat in which he had fallen while trying to hit his keeper with his trunk.

A zoo spokeswoman said Widget lost consciousness while going through a "basic layover," in which she lay on her side as part of a six-week-old exercise program.

ZOO OFFICIALS waited several hours for Widget to rise and checked her for signs of stress. But the elephant died at about 11 p.m.

The exercise program was designed to provide mental and physical exercise to keep bored elephants stimulated and physically fit, the spokeswoman said.

"It could have been the catalyst" leading to Widget's death, she said, but she noted the animal was in poor health. Dr. Daniel Laughlin, zoo physician, said pulmonary congestion was the cause of death.

The light exercise program will continue for the zoo's other three elephants, another female African, 6-year-old Mame, a 31-year-old Asian named Babe, and a nearly 3-year-old Asian named Patience.

Dr. George Rabb, zoo director, said the zoo hopes to purchase a young male Asian elephant this spring. Asians now are on the endangered species list.

He said the zoo would also seek to purchase an African replacement for Widget because it wants to provide Mame "with company of her own kind."

Unit district bill tabled, House asks rewrite

SPRINGFIELD — Illinois General Assembly committee Tuesday tabled a bill that would amend state law to allow all residents of High School Dist. 214 to vote in an April 9 referendum on the proposed Elk Grove Township unit school district.

JOHN CUMMINGS, Schaumburg, would hardly be what you'd call a rebel. But he and his roommate, Ron Kalecik, have taken Commonwealth Edison to the Illinois Commerce Commission over what they protest is an unreasonable $99 electric bill for their apartment.

'Principle' of a $99 bill sparks nonrebel to fight

by JOHN LAMPINEN

John Cummings doesn't consider himself a rebel.

He and his roommate, Ron Kadlecik, do think, however, that there comes a time when you have to take a stand for principle.

Their principle came when they got a $99 electric bill from Commonwealth Edison, and they have taken the company to the Illinois Commerce Commission to protest it.

They are both 25-year-old salesmen, and they have lived in one of the Mallard West apartments at 11 Watterford Rd., Schaumburg, for the last 15 months.

CUMMINGS SAYS he has never had any run-ins with the electric company before. When they moved in, their bimonthly electric bills usually fell in the $30 to $35 range.

Then last April, they got the bill for $99, and Cummings admits, it made them angry. They could afford to pay it, he says but they had not added any new appliances and they could not figure out why the amount should have jumped so high.

Late last fall, he filed an informal complaint to the ICC. Commonwealth answer filed an written response.

IT IS NOT A question of the money, he maintains.

"I've already spent that and more getting ready for this," he says. "It's a matter of principle."

Meanwhile, all the subsequent bills came back at the lower $35 level, and Cummings say he and his roommate have paid them, while continuing to let the $99 bill go.

Finally, the ICC set a hearing in Chicago for the protest.

One day last week Cummings took the day off work and went downtown where he and officials from Commonwealth Edison spent 3½ hours giving their sides of the story.

"It was to try to prove a point. I just thought it was so out of line," Cummings says. "You take all these things — coffee and gas going up. Well, here's something where maybe you can test the system."

A decision on the matter is expected in about a month."

Goldwater considers libel suit

by United Press International

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said Tuesday if he decides on a libel suit over news stories alleging gangsters financed his political career and his brother's fortnue, "It will probably be the biggest ever" filed in the United States.

In a television interview ("Good Morning, America," ABC), Goldwater said "I'm shocked and I'm resentful" over the articles by a group of investigative reporters and editors who wrote that Goldwater and his brother Robert were friendly with mob figures implicated in state corruption.

The articles said Goldwater, his brother Robert, and Harry Rosenzweig, former Arizona Republican state chairman who charted the senator's rise to political prominence, achieved dominance over Phoenix through their friendships and business alliances with mobsters.

GOLDWATER SAID, "It's not only ridiculous, it's completely untrue."

Asked whether he planned to sue Investigative Reporters and Editors Inc., the team which looked into the murder of Arizona Republic reporter Don Bolles and corruption in the state, Goldwater said, "I have lawyers working on it. In fact, everybody whose name is mentioned by these reporters are in the same fix.

"I don't like to get in lawsuits . . . I've been in a lawsuit once in New York. I won it. But it cost me something like $12,000 to win it . . . but I'm not going to allow my name to be besmirched by somebody from gang-ridden Long Island."

He was referring to Bob Greene, a reporter for the Long Island newspaper Newsday, who led the IRE team of 36 reporters and editors from 25 newspapers and broadcast stations.

"IF THIS SUIT is brought, it will probably be the biggest ever brought in the history of the United States and our lawyers are considering it today," Goldwater said.

Goldwater acknowledged he had accepted a contribution from extortionist Willie Bioff during his first political campaign but said it was only later he learned Bioff's true identity. He said he once gave Bioff a lift in his private plane and, "I think I was at his house for drinks twice."

Goldwater said he had stayed at racketeer Gus Greenbaum's Flamingo Hotel in Las Vegas.

"So I knew Gus Greenbaum and what the hell is wrong with that?" Goldwater said, adding Greenbaum is "a very highly thought-of man in Phoenix, Ariz."

As for accusations in the report he failed to take action against organized crime in Arizona, Goldwater said, "Now I'm a United States senator. I'm not in the legislature of Arizona. I'm not the governor. In fact, I'm a Republican in a Democratic state. What can I do about it?"

HE CHALLENGED Greene "to bring out the name of one nationally known gangster in Arizona today. If they're there. I don't know about them."

In a third article copyrighted by the IRE published Tuesday, the IRE team said that:

- Rosenzweig maintains intimate ties with a Phoenix club owner identified by police as a contact man for the Chicago crime syndicate.
- Rosenzweig has nurtured prostitution and gambling in Phoenix for years. A variety of sources have cited various instances of Rowenzweig's power-brokering in prostitution, gambling and the police agencies responsible for their enforcement.
- ROSENZWEIG HAS ties with mob-connected bookmakers and syndicate hoodlums who midwifed the birth of Las Vegas as the gambling capital of the nation. Rosenzweig denied influence in the gambling rackets and said his only connection with prostitution was "maybe twice" recommending prostitutes to friends.
- Rosenzweig offered his name, support and friendship to Herbert Lieb, 57 a balding ex-Chicagoan who got his start in Phoenix, police say, with a loan from Allen Dorfman, the acknowledged conduit for loan arrangements between the underworld and the giant Teamsters Union pension fund.
- Rosenzweig and his two sons helped Lieb start a popular discotheque.

Rosenzweig was unavailable for comment on the IRE charges.

U.S. sends $1 million military aid to Zaire

INGSHASA, Zaire (UPI) — Zaire hinted Tuesday that Cuban troops were part of a force invading the former province of Katanga and asked for United States help. The United States called the request "justified" and sent $1 million in emergency military aid.

President Carter personally approved the shipment of supplies but is giving "no thought or consideration to sending ground troops there," Press Sec. Jody Powell said.

He stressed there were no weapons in the $1 million shipment of supplies Zaire requested to meet a reported invasion from Angola and said "no" when asked whether the U.S. action could be the start of another Vietnam-style involvement.

"WE'RE DEALING with a friendly country in Africa which is under armed attack from sources not yet completely clear and we are dealing with a moderate mount of equipment," Powell said at a news briefing.

"We have been for years providing military aid to Zaire. This is certainly not a dramatic departure from what we have been doing . . ."

Zaire's government-controlled news agency said the invaders who attacked from Angola last week and captured several towns were "led by other mercenaries from across the Atlantic and supported by a third country for the needs of ideological conquest."

The report did not mention Cuba by name. But an estimated 10,000 Cuban troops remain in Angola from a force of some 14,000 that helped the Marxist faction of Angolan President Agostinho Neto win a bloody civil war and control of the former Portuguese colony last year.

IN WASHINGTON, the State Dept. said it could not confirm that Cubans were among the invading force and that the speedy U.S. compliance to Zaire's request for military aid was not necessarily an endorsement of Zaire's claim that the invaders were "mercenaries."

"We have no confirmed, solid evidence that there are Cubans" involved in the invasion force, State Dept. spokesman Frederick Z. Brown said. "We have no solid evidence that they (the invaders) have support from Angola," he said.

"The request is justified . . . and our information (about the situation in Zaire) is sufficient for us to make a favorable judgment on the request," Brown said.

A Pentagon spokesman said a DC8 carried fuel, communications equipment, parachutes, back packs and military rations as well as medical supplies. A second chartered plane will leave for Zaire later this week with spare parts for U.S.-made Hercules C130 aircraft used by Zaire's air force.

Brown said the foormer Belgian Congo also had requested and received help from Western European countries. He did not identify them.

The State Dept. also accounted Tuesday for 90 more Americans in the area, including 82 employes of a construction company, Constructeur Inga-Shaba, a subsidiary of Morrison-Knudsen, a U.S. company from Boise, Idaho. Twenty-six of them, mostly dependents of the construction workers, will be evacuated.

Members of a "National Front for the Liberation of the Congo," organized by former Katanga rebels who fled to the then Portuguese colony of Angola following the fall of the late Moise Tsombe and his Katango separatist movement, reiterated claims the invasion was an internal uprising.

Arlington to file suits on unit plan

Arlington Heights will file class action lawsuits opposing the formation of the proposed Elk Grove Township unit school district. The suits will be filed in federal and state courts. More than 150 opponents of the unit school district proposal attended a special meeting of the Arlington Heights Village Board Tuesday night to voice support for the lawsuits. Opponents said the reorganization would harm High School Dist. 214 because the unit district would take up 42 per cent of its assessed valuation and nearly 27 per cent of its students. The unit district proposal calls for the combining of Dist. 59 elementary schools with Forest View High School in Arlington Heights and Elk Grove High School in Elk Grove Village under one board of education and administration.

Pretrial Columbo items checked

Attorneys for accused slayers Patricia Columbo and Frank DeLuca are collecting clippings of newspaper reports to determine if pretrial publicity has jeopardized their clients' right to a fair trial, Bill Swano, assistant Cook County public defender, Tuesday said. Defense attorneys for Miss Columbo, 20, and DeLuca, 39, Tuesday also filed motions requesting Judge R. Eugene Pincham suppress statements made by the pair to police, and evidence gathered by prosecutors. Next pretrial check date is March 22 in Cook County Circuit Court. Trial is scheduled for April 4.

Woman sought in $3,788 bilk

A Des Plaines woman is being sought on charges of bilking $3,788 from another city woman in an alleged scheme to start a taxicab service. Diana Shannon, 524 N. Fifth Ave., is being sought by police for taking the money from Fern Bright, 1606 Howard Ave. Mrs. Bright told police she gave Ms. Shannon $3,000 Jan. 6 to start a taxicab franchise to be called "Diana Cabs" that was to operate from O'Hare Airport. The money was to be used for the purchase of about 10 cabs, she said. Mrs. Bright told investigators she gave an additional $788 to Ms. Shannon two weeks later, but never heard anything further about the cab company. A warrant was issued for Ms. Shannon's arrest by Associate Judge Albert H. LaPlante of the Cook County Circuit Court.

Bigamist faces charges in scheme to bilk woman

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — A convicted bigamist was arraigned this week on charges of attempting to swindle a 71-year-old woman he met through a newspaper ad and married last month.

Wayne Farmer, 40, was being held in the Jackson County jail in lieu of $10,000 bond on the felony charge. He faces a preliminary hearing March 23. Farmer is wanted in at least three states for defrauding widows he either married or promised to marry.

An assistant Johnson County district attorney said he believed Farmer attempted to swindle the Kansas City woman to satisfy a Johnson County court order in the bilking of a Merriam widow of $42,000.

FARMER PLEADED guilty last week to defrauding the Merriam widow, whom he had promised to marry. In an arrangement with the court, the charge was to be dropped if Farmer paid the widow $35,000 by June 8.

Officials said Farmer recently put the Kansas City woman's home up for sale for $37,950. He also obtained at least $8,000 in a bank draft from the woman, and apparently used the money to buy a luxury automobile.

He also is charged with two counts of obtaining money under false pretenses from what an Iowa official called a con game to obtain money from two 62-year-old Des Moines widows.

FARMER BILKED the women of $31,000 after marrying them, said John H. King, assistant Polk County (Iowa) attorney.

He said several other women have called his office since the charges against Farmer were filed Sept. 3. But they told officials they did not wish to file charges because they feared embarrassment.

"We have an extradition out on that man," King said. "We hope to get him in our turn. We'll be patient about it — I'm afraid it may be a while."

Hughes estate 'only' $169 million: report

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Industrialist Howard Hughes, believed to be one of the richest men in the world with a fortune of more than $2.5 billion, left an estate valued at less than $169 million, according to an inventory filed Tuesday in Nevada District Court.

When he died Hughes had less than $2,000 in actual cash.

"The estate, or certainly the court-appointed administrators, never made a speculation as to the value," said attorney William Morse, representing the court-appointed administrators of First National Bank of Nevada and William R. Lummis.

Lummis, Hughes' first cousin, now is chairman of the board of Summa Corp., the firm solely owned by Hughes, which held most of his wealth.

THE INVENTORY of the Hughes estate Tuesday filed was the first public pronouncement of Hughes' worth. The appraisal of $168,834,615 fell far short of estimates during past decades by the news media and Hughes associates who guessed his wealth ranged from $2.5 billion to more than $4 billion.

Albert Fitzgibbons, vice president of the stock brokerage corporation that compiled the inventory, placed the value of Summa Corp. and the Hughes Television Network Inc. at $110.78 million. The two holding companies between them control six Nevada gambling resorts, vast real estate holdings in Nevada, Arizona and California, Hughes helicopters and almost 80 per cent of Hughes Airwest, a regional airline. Hughes owned most of the undeveloped land along the Las Vegas "strip" as well as 40 square miles west of Las Vegss known as "Husite."

Summa Corp. lawyers have told Nevada courts within the past year that the first was worth more than $450 million. Fitzgibbons was not immediately available for comment on the appraisal compiled by Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith Inc.

Fitzgibbons said in the appraisal that Hughes' "sole proprietorship" of the Silver Slipper in Las Vegas was valued at one dollar. Hughes paid $5.5 million for the gay-nineties type gambling hall on the Las Vegas "strip" in the late 1960s.

A TOTAL OF 1,980 shares of common stock in Hughes Air Corp., representing Hughes' personal 22 per cent share of Hughes Airwest, was valued at $850,000 in the inventory. That would place the total value of the airline at $3.86 million, far below the $41 million which Hughes finally paid for the regional air carrier.

The inventory did not itemize the holdings of Summa Corp. and Hughes Television Network Inc. but it did itemize aircraft leases, jewelry and some real estate. The inventory said, for example, a platinum guard ring inset with numerous small square rubies was worth $150 and that one wedding ring with 36 small square diamonds on a platinum mounting was worth $175.

The inventory showed Hughes had $1,799 in cash along with $609,522 in one Texas Commerce Bank account and $61,546 in another Texas Commerce Bank account.

Hijacker to free hostages if he gets to see daughter

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — A hijacker armed with two rifles and a pistol and threatening to shoot 15 hostages said late Tuesday he will fly back to Turin for another attempt at talking to his 6-year-old daughter. If he succeeds, he will free the hostages and fly to Moscow.

Italian ambassador Mario Profili said auto mechanic Luciano Porcari was "dangerous" after a three-hour radio conversation with the hijacker. The jet was parked 60 yards from the main buildings at Warsaw airport.

Porcari said he would allow 3½ hours of sleep for the crew of the Boeing 727, which had complained of utter exhaustion after the ordeal of nearly 40 hours and more than 6,000 miles, then fly on to Zurich and Turin or directly to Turin.

THE HIJACKER told Profili he wanted to see his 6-year-old daughter, Consuelo, "for at least 10 minutes," and later would fly on to Moscow.

The plane, which landed in Warsaw to refuel, was originally en route to Moscow, where Porcari hoped he would be allowed to go free because of his mistaken belief that Spain, where he hijacked the jet, had no diplomatic ties with the Kremlin.

But he apparently changed his mind and decided to return to Turin for one more try at speaking to his daughter after Porfili talked to him.

"The man is dangerous," Profili said. "He is disoriented and he appears to be out of his mind."

POLISH AUTHORITIES Said Porcari was armed with two rifles and a pistol and was holding hostage 15 passengers and a crew of seven.

The airborne drama in which Porcari ordered the craft to land in Africa — where he picked up another of his daughters and a $140,000 ransom — and then in Italy and Switzerland shaped up as one of the longest hijackings in history.

Porcari, 37, was clearly unaware that the Soviet Union and Spain not only recently restablished diplomatic relations but also have a civil aviation treaty permitting flights between the two nations.

THE SOVIET UNION gave permission for the airliner to fly over its territory and land in Moscow.

Porcari, brandishing a pistol and a rifle, took over the jet Monday shortly after it took off on a flight from Barcelona to Palma de Majorca and seizing a total of 36 hostages.

Penalties of married vs. 'matched' eyed in tax law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senators working on President Carter's tax cut bill expressed concern Tuesday that current tax law penalizes married people and encourages cohabitation of single persons.

The Senate Finance Committee postponed until at least Wednesday a decision on whether to lessen the "marriage penalty" in the standard deduction. Decisions also may come then on business tax cuts and Carter's proposed $50 per person rebate.

The senators bandied about several ideas on how to make it less profitable for single persons to live together. One idea — quickly laughed down — would have the Internal Revenue Service designate two single persons living together as married for tax purposes.

SEN. RUSSELL LONG, D-La., the committee chairman, said he favored a plan that would give married couples a slightly larger tax cut than either Carter's bill or House-passed legislation, while raising taxes an average of $25 a year on the approximately 1.8 million single persons who make more than $14,375 and use the standard deduction.

The "marriage penalty" in the tax code is the amount of standard deduction two single persons lose if they marry and claim the standard deduction for couples.

Under Carteer's proposal, single persons could claim a flat standard deduction of $2,200 rather than the current range from $1,700 to $2,400, and couples could claim a flat $3,000 instead of the range from $2,100 to $2,800. The House then changed Carter's single figure to $2,400 to prevent some single persons from being hit with a tax increase.

The "marriage penalty" in the Carter package would be $1,400 and in the House bill $1,800.

LONG SUGGESTED a standard deduction of $3,100 for couples and $2,300 for singles — a marriage penalty of $1,500.

"I don't know if I want to vote on it now, but that's what appeals to me," said Long, whose ideas often are approved by the committee.

The Long plan would mean that 1.8 million single persons — those making more than $14,375 — would pay more tax, an average of $25 per year. But all married couples using the standard deduction would get a slightly larger tax cut.

Local doctor paid $100,000 in aid

An Arlington Heights physician, Dr. James W. Faulkner, is one of 409 doctors in the country who received more than $100,000 in Medicare payments during 1975, the government reports.

Faulkner, a urologist with offices at 1430 N. Arlington Heights Rd., received $100,224 in Medicare payments in 1975, according to a list released for the first time Monday by the U.S. Dept of Health, Education and Welfare.

Faulkner, 56, was not available for comment at his office Tuesday. But his secretary said the sum represents money paid to Faulkner and an office associate, Dr. Fred S. Endsley, also a urologist.

THE TWO DOCTORS see a "substantial" number of elderly patients who are covered by Medicare health insurance, the secretary said. Both are medical staff members at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

HEW released its list of 409 doctors, 1,752 clinics or medical groups, and 53 laboratories receiving $100,000 or more under the terms of a new "sunshine" law that took effect Saturday.

The list does not include any charge of impropriety by the doctors, clinics or laboratories.

The list had been withheld previously because of disclosure prohibitions in the Social Security laws, HEW said. It said information on Social Security beneficiaries, including those on Medicare, will remain classified.

TOPPING THE list of solo practitioners was a New York eye specialist, Dr. Charles D. Kelsan, who was paid $412,757. The highest 1975 Medicare income in the Chicago area was paid to Dr. W. B. Knapp, an Evergreen Park internist, who received $315,454.

Medical groups in such communities as Flint, Mich.; Danville, Pa.; Charlottesville, Va.; and Birmingham, Ala.; were shown with Medicare billings in excess of $1 million each.

Faulkner received his medical degree in 1945 from Northwestern University medical school. He is a member of the American Medical Assn. and the American College of Surgeons. Urology is a medical specialty dealing with the organs and functions of the urinary tract.

The American Medical Assn. criticized the release of the top Medicare payment recipients.

"There is a basic dishonesty in the broadcast release of the names of individuals receiving Medicare payments," Dr. John Sammons, executive vice president of the AMA said. "Releasing the names serves only to badger a large segment of the profession and to establish guilt by innuendo."

He urged HEW to "say so" if it believes any of the listed doctors are guilty of fraud.

U.S. lawmakers urge decriminalization of pot

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three members of Congress said Tuesday youth might regain respect for drug laws if police stopped arresting and jailing persons who smoke marijuana.

Testifying before the House Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control, U.S. Representatives Edward Koch, D-N.Y., and Yvonne Burke, D-Calif., and Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., said an estimated 35 million Americans have tried marijuana and at least 13 million are regular smokers.

The committee is considering a bill that would make possession, use and nonprofit sale of up to one ounce of marijuana punishable by a fine of up to $100 instead of the jail terms required in many places.

MARIJUANA USE would be covered by citations — similar to traffic tickets — rather than arrest.

The bill would not override state laws covering drug use, but its sponsors believe states would follow the lead of federal law.

The three lawmakers said so-called "decriminalization" of marijuana offenses is not an attempt to encourage people to use the drug, but an effort to remove the discriminatory enforcement of laws.

MRS. BURKE said California's 1976 law decriminalizing marijuana actually led to fewer people using the drug. She suggested that, for young people, "we took away the factor of rebelling."

Koch said that to attack the drug problem, "we must have a population which respects all our drug laws. The present federal marijuana laws acts only as a drag on our fight against harder drugs."

Javits said marijuana smoking should not be "a crime which destroys lives," and young people question why "father can take two martinis but I can't smoke a reefer without jeopardizing my whole future."

Stavros sells land to cover fine

by TONI GINNETTI

One-time Wheeling political boss James Stavros is selling land he owns at Arlington Heights and Lake-Cook roads to the Cook County Highway Dept.to acquire funds to pay the federal fine he still owes.

The land, on the southwest corner of Arlington Heights and Lake-Cook roads, is part of vast property holdings in northern Wheeling Township owned in trust by Stavros, the former township Democratic committman convicted in 1974 of shaking down Wheeling developers.

County highway department officials Tuesday confirmed the property is being purchased from Stavros for right-of-way needed for the planned westward extension of Lake-Cook Road.

They declined to say how much land is involved, or the selling price until after the deal is made final, probably within the next three months.

STAVROS, THE ONCE powerful political boss of Wheeling, on Monday won approval from U.S. District Court Judge Hubert Will for a three-month extension in the deadline set for payment of the $25,000 fine he owes.

The fine and a four-year prison sentence were imposed by Judge Will in 1974 after Stravos pleaded guilty to extorting $92,000 from developers and evading income taxes.

Judge Will ruled in September, 1974 the fine would be due six months after Stavros' release from prison. Stavros Stavros' release on parole Sept. 8, 1976 after serving two years, but petitioned the court for a deadline extension when he was unable to make payment last week.

U. S. Atty. Samuel K. Skinner's office did not object to the extension request.

FRANK L. KAPLAN, chief engineer of right-of-way for the highway departmenet, Tuesday said the department has been negotiating.

Richard A. Devine. Stavros' attorney, said funds to pay the fine should be available by late June once condemnation proceedings on land Stavros owns were completed.

Frank L. Kaplan, chief engineer of right-of-way for the highway department, Tuesday said the department has been negotiating with Stavros' attorneys in the property sale.

He said a price agreement had been reached recently and negotiations "are on the 'go' side."

The land is part of several parcels owned by Stavros, self-proclaimed millionaire at one time. Stavros, who resides at 3705 Whirlway Dr., Northbrook, also owns a 235-acre farm on Buffalo Grove Road.

Grand jury urges Moore dismissal

A special grand jury Tuesday recommended that Winston Moore, embattled acting director of the Cook County Dept. of Corrections, be fired because he has "caused or worsened many of the problems at the (county) jail." The recommendation was one of 10 in a 71-page grand jury report released by Chief Cook County Criminal Court Judge Richard J. Fitzgerald. The report, following a three-month investigation, also criticized Sheriff Richard Elrod, the county corrections board, the Illinois Dept. of Corrections and the Cook County Health and Hospitals Governing Commission.

Elrod was maligned for "not having the courage to fire Director Moore," who previously was indicted by the grand jury on charges ranging from prisoner beating to perjury. The grand jury criticized the corrections board for "passing the buck" back to Elrod when he did not bring charges against Moore during past investigations of jail conditions.

The Illinois Dept. of Corrections, the grand jury said, inadequately monitored conditions at the jail. It said the health and hospitals governing commission allowed Moore to "impair the functioning of the jail's mental health team."

Jury pick begins in murder case

Jury selection began in Woodstock Tuesday in the murder trial of Gary Campbell, 20, Algonquin, charged in the rock-throwing death of a truck driver. Four other youths charged along with Campbell in the death of David L. Klawes, 26, Lawrence, pleaded guilty to reduced charges of attempted murder and involuntary manslaughter Feb. 10 and were sentenced to six-year prison terms.

Campbell has pleaded innocent to murder, attempted murder, criminal damage to property and reckless conduct. McHenry County Circuit Court Judge James Cooney denied a series of defense motions which would have prohibited prosecutors from showing photographs of the victim and displaying the sharp piece of rock that allegedly killed Klawes.

The judge also ruled Klawes' 4-year-old son could watch the trial providing he remained under control with his mother. Klawes was driving a milk tanker on the night of Oct. 19 when a rock smashed through his cab window and decapitated him. Four other motorists, including Arthur Engle, 60, Sharon, Wis., who was critically injured, said large rocks or road markers were thrown at them from a speeding van.

Those who pleaded guilty last month were John Shine, 20, his brother Joseph, 18, both of Fox River Grove, and Daniel Craig, 20, and James Glasder, 18, both of Cary.

Relief bid to get quick U.S. action

Gov. James R. Thompson was told in Washington Tuesday President Carter plans to act quickly on a request for drought relief for 37 Illinois counties. Carter aide Jack Watson promised quick action during a meeting with most of the state's congressional delegation and the governor, who spent the day in the capital working on a wide range of state-related issues.

Watson, Carter's drought relief specialist, said the President has received Thompson's request that 37 counties in west and central Illinois be declared disaster areas as a result of water shortages. Watson said 19 states are suffering from drought conditions, but Illinois is the first to ask for federal aid. Carter is searching the statute books to find the best way the federal government can respond to the unique problems posed by drought.

In Springfield, meantime, the state Emergency Services and Disaster agency released a report stating the effects of drought conditions in the state could be extensive and long-range. Lack of water already has exhausted or threatened water supplies in scores of communities, ran many livestock raising operations into debt and forced thousands of rural residents to haul water.

Lawmakers' allowance hike OKd

The Illinois House Tuesday passed a bill to raise lawmakers' daily food and housing allowance from $36 to $44. The measure (H256), sponsored by Rep. Arthur Telcser, R-Chicago, went to the Senate on a 91-58 vote. Telcser said he picked the $44 figure because it is the amount the Internal Revenue Service allows to be claimed without expenses being itemized. He also said higher costs make the increase necessary.

There was no other debate on the bill which, if made law, could cost $1,888 every day the legislature is in session. An attempt last week to change the bill to deny legislators per diem after June 30 each year failed. The amendment was designed to force the legislature to adjourn by that date, something it has not accomplished in recent years.

Two other bills — one to boost home office allowances from $12,000 to $17,000 (H243) and hike mileage from 15 cents to 20 cents a mile (H255) — have passed the House and are pending in the Senate. Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, offered H243 and Rep. Roman Kosinski, D-Chicago, sponsored H255.

Ritual killing of pig probed

A police investigation was ordered Tuesday into charges that a pig was drowned in a University of Illinois fraternity ritual. Assistant Mgr. Charles Stotts of the Champaign County Humane Society said witnesses saw the pig "being kicked" as it was dragged across a parking lot. He said the pig was hung by the neck with a rope, dumped into a barrel of water and held under water with a cement block until it drowned. Following ceremonies, the remains were thrown in the garbage, he said.

Society President Rick Schurtz said that unless the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity can give an adequate explanation for the incident, the society will press animal cruelty charges against four to six fraternity members. The university's office of the dean of students also is investigating the ceremony during March 5 initiation rites.

Lawmakers' allowance hike OKd

The Illinois House Tuesday passed a bill to raise lawmakers' daily food and housing allowance from $36 to $44. The measure (H256), sponsored by Rep. Arthur Telcser, R-Chicago, went to the Senate on a 91-58 vote. Telcser said he picked the $44 figure because it is the amount the Internal Revenue Service allows to be claimed without expenses being itemized. He also said higher costs make the increase necessary.

There was no other debate on the bill which, if made law, could cost $1,888 every day the legislature is in session. An attempt last week to change the bill to deny legislators per diem after June 30 each year failed. The amendment was designed to force the legislature to adjourn by that date, something it has not accomplished in recent years.

Two other bills — one to boost home office allowances from $12,000 to $17,000 (H243) and hike mileage from 15 cents to 20 cents a mile (H255) — have passed the House and are pending in the Senate. Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, offered H243 and Rep. Roman Kosinski, D-Chicago, sponsored H255.

Ritual killing of pig probed

A police investigation was ordered Tuesday into charges that a pig was drowned in a University of Illinois fraternity ritual. Assistant Mgr. Charles Stotts of the Champaign County Humane Society said witnesses saw the pig "being kicked" as it was dragged across a parking lot. He said the pig was hung by the neck with a rope, dumped into a barrel of water and held under water with a cement block until it drowned. Following ceremonies, the remains were thrown in the garbage, he said.

Society President Rick Schurtz said that unless the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity can give an adequate explanation for the incident, the society will press animal cruelty charges against four to six fraternity members. The university's office of the dean of students also is investigating the ceremony during March 5 initiation rites.

Township officials race to meet pay hike deadline

Herald staff report

Elected officials in four Northwest suburban townships are racing to increase their salaries before the April 5 election.

The fifth township, Elk Grove, is not entering the race. Some of its salaries rank second or third highest compared with the other townships.

State law says that township officials must raise their pay by March 29 or wait four more years. Palatine, Schaumburg and Maine townships have proposed raises; Elk Grove has decided to wait until 1981.

Wheeling Township Supervisor Ethel Kolerus, already the highest paid of the five supervisors, says Wheeling officials want raises but have not discussed specific amounts.

"I WOULD HOPE these are all going to be raised," she said. "We haven't been able to change them for four years and the cost-of-living has really gone up in that period of time."

The township is scheduled to discuss salary increases at its March 22 meeting.

Mrs. Kolerus is paid $11,500 for her "full-time plus" job at the township. She also receives $1,000 as treasurer of the road district.

Elk Grove Township is not far behind. Supervisor Richard Hall receives $11,000 for his job plus $1,000 as road district treasurer in the township, where Democratic challengers are criticizing incumbent Republicans for salaries they said are too high.

"We don't think they are high in relation to the time and effort we put in," Hall said. The salaries were approved in 1973 and the board of trustees recently approved the same wage levels for the next four years.

HALL SAID he puts in 25 to 30 hours per week on his part-time job. "If this was a nonpolitical job, I wouldn't even consider it for that kind of money," he said.

In Elk Grove, the supervisor's salary increased from $8,000 in 1969 to $12,000 in 1973.

"We took flak then as we're taking it now," Hall said. "But you do what you think is right."

Even in 1969, Wheeling Township paid its officials the highest wages in the area. The supervisor then received $8,800.

But while the salaries are lower, recently approved increases in Palatine and Schaumburg townships and proposed increases in Maine Township show those townships are catching up.

An increase from $6,750 to $9,750 has been approved for Schaumburg's supervisor, a part-time official. In Palatine Township, a hike from $5,800 to $7,100 for the part-time supervisor was approved.

SCHAUMBURG Supervisor Vernon Laubenstein said the salary hikes were justified by the growth of the township.

"It's also certainly a reflection of the inflation we've all lived with," Laubenstein said.

Palatine Supervisor Howard Olsen called the increases "austere." "It's a modest increase considering what has happened to costs and what will happen to costs in the next four years," he said.

Schaumburg showed the most dramatic increase when it went from $3,000 in 1969 to $6,750 in 1973. Palatine was the only township in which the supervisor's salary decreased, going from $5,949 in 1969 to $5,800 in 1973.

The Maine Township supervisor is expected to get a raise of more than $1,400 if the propoed levels are approved.

SUPERVISOR James Dowd is paid $5,600 plus $35 per meeting in his jobs as supervisor and supervisor of general assistance. He does not take $800, which is allowed him as supervisor.

Proposed salary figures would give the supervisor $7,000 plus an undetermined amount per meeting.

Maine Township has budgeted $6,000, up from $4,500, to be divided among the trustees and supervisor for each meeting they attend. The amount per meeting has not been set. Since 1973, each member has received $35 per meeting.

At $1,125 per year, Elk Grove has the highest paid township trustees, and none of the raises proposed so far by the other townships would exceed that.

Wheeling's assessor now receives $14,500 annually and would remain ahead of the other four even with no pay increase.

Maine Township has proposed raising its highway commissioner's pay from $14,000 to $18,000 and would lead the other townships unless Wheeling follows suit.

Palatine, Wheeling and Maine now offer the top wage, $6,000, for township clerks, but Schaumburg has upped the ante to $10,000 in its new salary scale.

Full-time highway position rejected

A request from Robert Bergman, Palatine Township highway commissioner, to make his job full time was rejected this week by the township's board of auditors, but a $2,150 salary increase for the position was approved.

The salary hike will put the highway commissioner's annual pay at $9,950, nearly the legal limit for part-time township positions.

Pay hikes also were approved for the township's supervisor, clerk, assessor and auditors for the next four years, as recommended by Supervisor Howard Olsen.

THE NEW SALARIES, with old levels in parentheses, are: supervisor, $7,100 ($5,800); clerk, $7,100 ($6,000); assessor, $9,440)$8,000); and trustees, $25 per meeting ($20 per meeting).

Trustees also will be paid $25 for board committee meetings they attend, with a maximum limit of two paid meetings per month.

The board also voted to establish an $8,000 salary for the collector, though it is no longer a functioning office. Taxes have been collected by Cook County since 1970 when a court injunction barred collection of taxes by townships and turned that duty over to the county. By state law the nonfunction post must be filled until it is abolished.

Olsen said the raises are "austere."

"It's a modest increase condisering what has happened to costs and what will happen to costs in the next four years," Olsen said.

THE HIGHWAY commissioner's raise represents about a 34 per cent board praised the work done by Bergman during the past four years. Olsen said Bergman's efficiency and dedication as a part-time highway commissioner "makes a good case" for keeping the post a part-time one.

Bergman asked the board in November if they would consider changing the highway commissioner post to full time.

Bergman's opponent in the April election, Democrat James Halloran, has said he would insist that the highway commissioner post be kept part time. Halloran raised the question of the highway commissioner's salary as a campaign issue, and had accused the incumbent Republican board of keeping it "hush-hush."

10c parking tax plan to get race track traffic study

Arlington Heights' plan to levy a 10 per cent parking tax on commercial parking lots was sent back to committee Tuesday for further study on its effects on traffic near Arlington Park Race Track.

The tax, which would collect $1.10 instead of $1, could cause traffic backups as long as two miles, an attorney for Arlington Park told the village board.

"This tax would mean an enormous inconvenience not only to us, but an inconvenience to the citizens at large," William J. Moore said. He predicted track patrons would turn to parking in residential neighborhoods to avoid the "inconvenience."

THE PARKING TAX has been recommended by the village administration and the village board's finance committee. Estimates show it would produce about $100,000 annually.

Moore said the extra time delays probably could be handled on weekdays if extra staff were hired, but he estimated the additional personnel would cost the race track $30,000 to $50,000 per year.

Race track attorneys also argued the proposed tax would be illegal, though Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel disagreed.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson also disagreed that collection of the extra dime would cause traffic to back up one or two miles. "Assuming it takes twice as long to collect, all they need to do is move their collectors back twice as far to overocme the extra backup," Hanson said.

Hanson was directed to have village engineers conduct traffic studies, citing possibly Sportsman's Park in Cicero where a 15 cents parking tax is collected.

Unit district bill tabled for rewrite

support of the bill before the elementary and secondary education committee of the Illinois House tabled the bill until Tuesday so it could be reworded.

Committee members objected that the bill does not make clear that while all those affected by the formation of a proposed unit district would be able to vote on the district's establishment, only those living within the boundaries of the proposed unit district would be able to vote on tax rates and the issuance of bonds of the new district.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS say they want to make sure that residents living outside the boundaries of the proposed unit district would not be establishing the tax rates for the new district.

State Rep. Virginia Macdonald, R-Arlington Heights, one of the cosponsors of the bill, told committee members she doubts the legislation can be enacted in time to help Dist. 214 residents, but said the bill also is important to the futures of other large districts with an uneven distribution of taxable assets within their boundaries.

Dist. 214 Board Pres. Donald Hoeck said that as the law stands now, any "financially favored" area of a district can petition to withdraw from their "less favored neighbors" with the approval of Illinois Schools Supt. Joseph Cronin.

"They can secure the advantages being sought without thought to the disadvantages to the remainder of the district, without the disadvantaged portion of the district having any voice in a matter which is so vital to them," he said.

PASSAGE OF THE BILL would mean that all voters in Dist. 214 would be allowed to go to the polls April 9 to determine the fate of the proposed Elk Grove Township unit school district. As the law stands now, only voters in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 will be eligible to vote.

The proposed unit district would combine 21 Dist. 59 elementary and junior high schools, Forest View High School in Arlington Heights and Elk Grove High School in Elk Grove Village under one school board and administration. Dist. 59 is one of seven elementary districts in the Dist. 214 area.

"THE CREATION OF the unit district involves not only breaking up Dist. 214 and the loss of two of its high schools, but it removes a disproportionate share of the district's assessed valuation," Dist. 214 Supt. Edward Gilbert said. "It is estimated that even with full funding by the state, Dist. 214, minus the unit district area, would suffer a 7 per cent loss in total funds to finance its schools, thus calling on residents to either increase taxes or have educational programs cut."

The proposed unit district would mean the loss of 42 per cent of Dist. 214 assessed valuation and 27 per cent of its students.

"With declining enrollments, inflation and the inability of the state to fully fund education, it will be almost impossible to supply quality education in Dist. 214 with this amount of assessed valuation and students pulled away," Mrs. Macdonald said.

PLO 'shall never recognize Israel'

The Palestine Liberation Organization will never end its armed struggle to extinguish Israel even if a Palestinian nation is established on Jordan's West Bank, the PLO's "foreign minister" said Tuesday. "No Palestinian leader would dare think of recognizing Israel or amending the Palestinian charter" which calls for the end of Israel as a Jewish state, said Farouk Kaddoumi, who heads the PLO's Political Department. "The gun in our hands is the basis," he told the Palestinian National Council, a parliament-in-exile. "Beware not to leave it. You should keep your guns even after you establish yourselves on part of our land. We are prepared to be flexible and agree to the establishment of a state on part of our land, but we shall never recognize the state of Israel," he said.

Slim U.S. Viet probe chance

The top Vietnam expert on the White House commission en route to trace 2,550 Americans missing in Indochina said in the Philippines Tuesday there is no chance Hanoi will allow U.S. search teams in Vietnam. "Sending in American adviser teams is out of the question. The Vietnamese wouldn't agree to this and I can understand why," said Rep. G. V. "Sonny" Montgomery, D-Miss.

Montgomery, who is making his 11th trip to Vietnam and his second misson specifically to search for missing U.S. war victims, said, "Americans wouldn't like teams from Hanoi running around the United States." But Leonard Woodcock, the United Auto Workers president who is the commission chairman, said the mission has another important purpose — "a hope to build a bridgehead toward normalization of relations" between the United States and the Communist regime in Vietnam.

Schools fail sex discrimination

Nearly two thirds of the nation's schools and colleges have failed to meet legal requirements for banning sex discrimination in classes and activities, the government reported Tuesday. These schools will be given 60 days to assure the government they are complying with the Title IX sex discrimination law or face possible withdrawal of federal aid, said the report by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Since it takes an average of nine months to process fund cutoffs, it is unlikely any will be imposed during the current school year.

HEW published a list of the 6,742 school systems and colleges which have provided legally required statements attesting to their compliance with the 1972 law. It said 13,576 school districts and colleges either failed to submit the required forms or filed inadequate assurance statements. Notices will be sent "immediately" to those 11,442 elementary and high school systems and 2,134 colleges and universities, giving them 60 days to file the forms, an HEW spokesman said.

Receivership for pension fund?

The government obviously has enough evidence of wrongdoing to place the $1.4 billion Teamsters Central States pension fund into receivership, a congressional subcommittee chairman said Tuesday. Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., said his House Ways and Means oversight subcommittee wants to ask the Labor Department why it has spent nearly two yers negotiating with the Teamsters when there seems to be evidence to justify strong legal action against the fund.

Gibbons acknowledged, however, that his question may go unanswered because Labor Secretary Ray Marshall has refused to testify. Marshall declined to appear Tuesday because the subcommittee wouldn't guarantee him a private hearing. Rep. J. J. Pickle, D-Tex., a subcommittee member, said Marshall's refusal "makes a mockery of the open and responsive government" promised by President Carter.

The government has investigated the Teamsters' biggest pension fund since November, 1975. During that time the Internal Revenue Service threatened to revoke the fund's tax-exempt status and the Labor Department drafted a suit against the trustees.

Reorganization plan passes test

President Carter's plans for reorganizing the federal bureaucracy passed a pivotal test Tuesday when a House subcommittee unanimously approved a compromise proposal. The compromise, offered by Chairman Jack Brooks, D-Tex., of the parent House Government Operations Committee, apparently assured congressional approval. It ended a standoff between the administration and Brooks, who opposed the "one-house veto" provision Carter included in his proposed reorganization authority.

The bill sent to the full committee — which will vote on it Thursday — is similar to one already approved by the Senate, giving Carter a three-year authority to submit reorganization plans to Congress. Each plan would become effective unless either house of Congress disapproved it within 60 days after submission.

No postal rate hike until '78

Postmaster General Benjamin Bailar said Tuesday there will be no postage rate increases until early 1978 "at the earliest," and despite major problems the Postal Service is in good health. Bailar had given assurances earlier there would be no rate increase this year, but this was his first mention of a specific date when one would be necessary. Bailar testified before a House post office subcommittee which is starting a new system of "congressional oversight" to monitor spending and operation of the federally subsidized postal corporation created six years ago.

TRAVIS TUCKER, right, an American serving with the Selous Scouts of the Rhodesian Army, is instructed by Sgt. Singai of the proper procedure to use in checking a bush path for tracks. Tucker, from Arlington, Va., served as a U.S. Marine sergeant in the Vietnam war. He has been in Rhodesia five years. There are only two Americans in the Selous Scouts, up to now a secret elite tracking unit used to locate black nationalist guerrilla units raiding Rhodesia's bush country.

PLO 'shall never recognize Israel'

The Palestine Liberation Organization will never end its armed struggle to extinguish Israel even if a Palestinian nation is established on Jordan's West Bank, the PLO's "foreign minister" said Tuesday. "No Palestinian leader would dare think of recognizing Israel or amending the Palestinian charter" which calls for the end of Israel as a Jewish state, said Farouk Kaddoumi, who heads the PLO's Political Department. "The gun in our hands is the basis," he told the Palestinian National Council, a parliament-in-exile. "Beware not to leave it. You should keep your guns even after you establish yourselves on part of our land. We are prepared to be flexible and agree to the establishment of a state on part of our land, but we shall never recognize the state of Israel," he said.

Slim U.S. Viet probe chance

The top Vietnam expert on the White House commission en route to trace 2,550 Americans missing in Indochina said in the Philippines Tuesday there is no chance Hanoi will allow U.S. search teams in Vietnam. "Sending in American adviser teams is out of the question. The Vietnamese wouldn't agree to this and I can understand why," said Rep. G. V. "Sonny" Montgomery, D-Miss.

Montgomery, who is making his 11th trip to Vietnam and his second misson specifically to search for missing U.S. war victims, said, "Americans wouldn't like teams from Hanoi running around the United States." But Leonard Woodcock, the United Auto Workers president who is the commission chairman, said the mission has another important purpose — "a hope to build a bridgehead toward normalization of relations" between the United States and the Communist regime in Vietnam.

Schools fail sex discrimination

Nearly two thirds of the nation's schools and colleges have failed to meet legal requirements for banning sex discrimination in classes and activities, the government reported Tuesday. These schools will be given 60 days to assure the government they are complying with the Title IX sex discrimination law or face possible withdrawal of federal aid, said the report by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Since it takes an average of nine months to process fund cutoffs, it is unlikely any will be imposed during the current school year.

HEW published a list of the 6,742 school systems and colleges which have provided legally required statements attesting to their compliance with the 1972 law. It said 13,576 school districts and colleges either failed to submit the required forms or filed inadequate assurance statements. Notices will be sent "immediately" to those 11,442 elementary and high school systems and 2,134 colleges and universities, giving them 60 days to file the forms, an HEW spokesman said.

Receivership for pension fund?

The government obviously has enough evidence of wrongdoing to place the $1.4 billion Teamsters Central States pension fund into receivership, a congressional subcommittee chairman said Tuesday. Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., said his House Ways and Means oversight subcommittee wants to ask the Labor Department why it has spent nearly two yers negotiating with the Teamsters when there seems to be evidence to justify strong legal action against the fund.

Gibbons acknowledged, however, that his question may go unanswered because Labor Secretary Ray Marshall has refused to testify. Marshall declined to appear Tuesday because the subcommittee wouldn't guarantee him a private hearing. Rep. J. J. Pickle, D-Tex., a subcommittee member, said Marshall's refusal "makes a mockery of the open and responsive government" promised by President Carter.

The government has investigated the Teamsters' biggest pension fund since November, 1975. During that time the Internal Revenue Service threatened to revoke the fund's tax-exempt status and the Labor Department drafted a suit against the trustees.

Reorganization plan passes test

President Carter's plans for reorganizing the federal bureaucracy passed a pivotal test Tuesday when a House subcommittee unanimously approved a compromise proposal. The compromise, offered by Chairman Jack Brooks, D-Tex., of the parent House Government Operations Committee, apparently assured congressional approval., It ended a standoff between the administration and Brooks, who opposed the "one-house veto" provision Carter included in his proposed reorganization authority.

The bill sent to the full committee — which will vote on it Thursday — is similar to one already approved by the Senate, giving Carter a three-year authority to submit reorganization plans to Congress. Each plan would become effective unless either house of Congress disapproved it within 60 days after submission.

No postal rate hike until '78

Postmaster General Benjamin Bailar said Tuesday there will be no postage rate increases until early 1978 "at the earliest," and despite major problems the Postal Service is in good health. Bailar had given assurances earlier there would be no rate increase this year, but this was his first mention of a specific date when one would be necessary. Bailar testified before a House post office subcommittee which is starting a new system of "congressional oversight" to monitor spending and operation of the federally subsidized postal corporation created six years ago.

Suburban leaders behind idea

Raising drinking age supported

Northwest suburban communities want the state to raise the legal drinking age from 19 to 21 because officials say the lowered limit has brought with it an increase in traffic violations.

Bill Muhlenfeld, executive director of the Northwest Municipal Conference, said the communities are closely watching three legislative proposals to raise the drinking age, two of which have been introduced in the House and one in the Senate.

"If it does not look like state legislation will pass, then the conference will likely take a position," Muhlenfled said, noting this might lead to a regional change.

HOFFMAN ESTATES was the first community to raise the issue. Village Pres. Virginia M. Hayter said a series of hearings on the sale of liquor to minors showed a number of young drivers probably also were drinking.

"The problem is not that they are drinking, but that they are creating a safety hazard when they are driving," Mrs. Hayter said. It is not a moral issue, she said.

Authorities agree, however, that the problem cannot be solved on a local basis.

"If you say they can't buy it here, they are just going to buy it somewhere else and bring it back. That's why it has to be done on a regional or statewide basis," Mrs. Hayter said. "It is an exercise in futility just banning the sale here."

SOME OFFICIALS, such as Mount Prospect Police Chief Ralph Doney, said they are divided on the merits of raising the drinking age. Doney said raising the age limit would reduce traffic problems but create greater enforcement problems.

"Whether you say the drinking age is 19 or 21, they are still going to get the booze and they are still going to drink," Doney said.

Doney said he does not favor either a local or a regional attempt to increase the drinking age. "If the state of Illinois decides to change the age limit of drinking I would be all for it," he said, arguing that would be the only equitable approach.

Muhlenfeld also believes a statewide approach is preferable. With a regional increase in drinking age "you will still have villages on the periphery," he said Teen-agers in those towns will merely travel to neighboring towns to get liquor, he said.

The three legislative proposals currently are in state assembly committee.

FBI check delays naming of Bond to FAA position

The appointment of Illinois Dept. of Transportation Sec. Langhorne M. Bond as administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration is being delayed by uncompleted FBI background checks.

Government officials in Washington and Springfield said the delay in confirming security clearances for Bond is preventing U.S. Dept. of Transportation Sec. Brock Adams from acting on the appointment.

If the move is completed, Bond will become the first official from Illinois to gain a high position in the Carter administration.

Bond, a private pilot and sports car racing enthusiast, was unavailable for comment on the possible appointment. Spokesmen for Bond and Adams said they neither could confirm or deny the reports, which have drawn some speculation in Springfield and Washington in recent weeks.

BOND, WHO FIRST WAS appointed to the state transportation post by former Gov. Daniel Walker and is one of the few Walker appointees to be kept on by Gov. James R. Thompson, has told colleagues he is interested in the FAA position.

Langhorne Bond

Bond worked closely with top Carter campaign strategists developing positions on transportation matters.

Bond, 39, came to Illinois in 1973 after stints with the federal transportation department and the National Transportation Center a non-profit urban transportation research unit in Pittsburgh, Pa.

He has been involved in road programs and mass transit projects in Illinois.

Bond was born in Shanghai where his father was assigned as a vice president of Pan American World Airways.

When Bond was reappointed by Thompson, some Republicans groused that the job-rich state highway department should be given to a GOP appointee and not left in the hands of a Walker holdover.

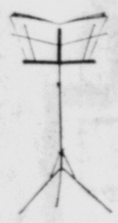

Bond, however, is credited with bringing more federal highway money into Illinois in recent years than any of his predecessors.

Buzzards return to Hinckley

HINCKLEY, Ohio (UPI) — The buzzards came back to Hinckley Tuesday, the Ides of March, as tradition says they have for nearly 150 years.

The first bird flew in about 7 a.m., and the rest are expected during the week.

The residents of this northern Ohio community of 200 will celebrate Buzzard Day on Sunday with a pancake and sausage breakfast for about 30,000 persons.

NO ONE KNOWS exactly when the traditional return of the buzzards began.

At first a few came back, probably to mate, but the numbers increased after the "Great Hinckley Hunt" of the late 1880s, when numerous animals were slaughtered to make way for settlers in the area, residents say.

"My son said he saw one today and my husband said he saw one," Mrs. Walter Robb said. "The pilot birds come in first and then the big flocks come in later this week.

"A lot of them started coming back after the Hinckley Hunt," she said, "That's when they left the remains of all those animals. People had settled all around and the animals were pushed into the middle in this area. There were so many wild animals that people were afraid to settle here so they just eliminated them.

"THOSE BUZZARDS have put Hinckley on the map," said Mrs. Robb, who has lived here for 30 years.

Sgt. Roger Lutz, a Cleveland Metro Parks Ranger on Buzzard watch, said the first buzzard was sighted gliding along at tree-top level.

"I saw the first one at about 7, and then two or three more came in," said Lutz.

Ray Kemeny, who works in a store here, said he also saw one of the early buzzards.

"Everybody's got their thing," he said. "We have buzzards. Why do the swallows come back to Capistrano?"

Mrs. Anna Buener said she had lived here 20 years and the buzzards "are something you live with.

"It's just the work of God that they come back," he said. "I just they come back," she said. "I just accept it."

Greenpeace members confront seal hunters

ST. ANTHONY, Canada (UPI) — A group of conservationists flew into a sealing area Tuesday to confront Canadian and Norwegian fishermen on the first day of this year's seal hunt off the Newfoundland coast.

Fishermen from six Canadian and five Norwegian ships were dropped at daybreak onto the icefloes 45 miles east of St. Anthony to begin the two-week hunt.

About 177,000 baby seals are expected to be slaughtered.

NINE MEMBERS of the Greenpeace foundation, a prominent Canadian environmental group, flew in by helicopter to the hunt site accompanied by newsmen and a wawyer. But there were no incidents.

A Greenpeace spokesman declined to divulge what sort of confrontation tactics the group would use.

The seal hunt protestors earlier said one of their tactics involved forming a chair of dinghies, placing themselves between the hunters and the seals.

About 40 additional police officers have been assigned to the area and air patrols increased, a police spokesman said.

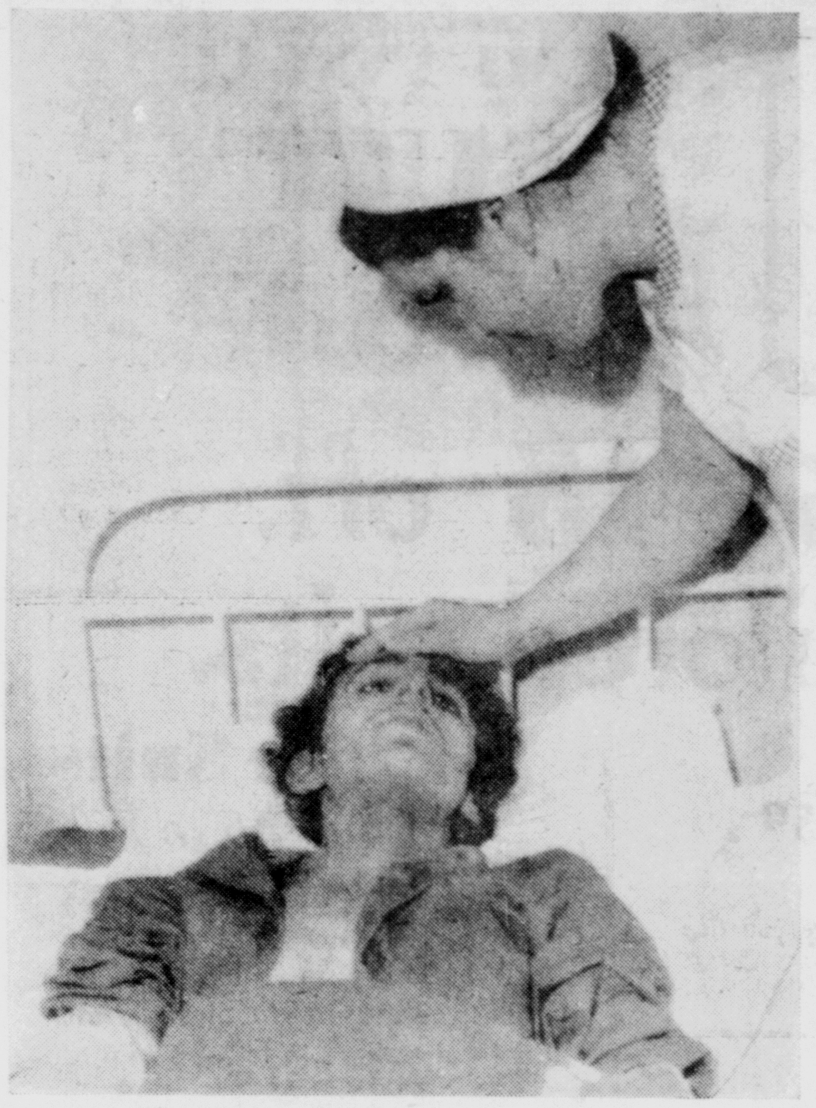

ROYAL CANADIAN Mounted Police said there were no arrests, nor have they been called to the hunt area.

"We did have a bit of trouble earlier today with local protestors, who were picketing the Greenpeace helicopters but we broke their demonstration and sent them back to their homes," an RCMP spokesman said.

"We didn't have to make any arrests, but there were complaints and we had to disperse them," he said.

The villagers had kept a vigil around the group's five helicopters since Sunday.

Man saved 11 days after quake

SORIN CRAINIC, 19, is attended by a nurse in the hospital where he was taken Tuesday after being pulled from ruins of an apartment building destroyed March 4 in Bucharest's devastating earthquake. He survived 11 days without food or water, longer than any human on record.

BUCHAREST, Romania (UPI) — A teen-ager, buried by an earthquake in the ruins of an apartment building, was rescued alive Tuesday after surviving 11 days without food r water — longer than any human on record.

Rescue workers found Sorin Crainic, 19, still alive under the ruins where he survived 265 hours without food or water. Doctors said they could find no medical explanation for his survival.

Dr. Ana Maria Soroceanu said Crainic was in generally good condition though he was slightly agitated, incoherent and moderately dehydrated.

"HE KNOWS exactly what happened," Dr. Soroceanu said. "He slept almost all the time. This is a record never met even in the literature of medical specialists. He broke all the records of living without water and food."

A Romanian Army sergeant, Cornel Albusel, said he saw a brick moving as he walked through the rubble of the Continental Apartment house — the same 10-story building in which about a dozen artists and writers were killed.

"What day is today and how are my parents?" Crainic said as he was lifted from the rubble.

The youth first asked for water and immediately was taken to a hospital where doctors said his general condition was good though he was suffering from dehydration.

"I kept hoping all the time," Crainic, a factory worker, said. "My hope has come true. I shall be able to walk again and breathe fresh air, much fresh air. I shall go back to work.

"I SHALL BE ABLE to see my friends again and my mother, especially my mother, whom I love so dearly."

Crainic was found after authorities lifted the state of emergency in Bucharest and the official casualty toll rose to more than 1,500 persons killed and more than 11,000 others injured.

Crainic's survival surpassed that of Mrs. Elena Enache, 57, an elementary school teacher, who lived crouched in the debris of another apartment building for 187 hours. She was rescued Saturday.

Mrs. Enache was taken to the central military hospital in shock though she sustained only scratches on her head and right arm.

Col. Dr. Traian Bandila, head of the intensive care unit at the hospital, said there was no medical explanaton for how Crainic and Mrs. Enache had been able to survive without water. Water pumped from hoses by rescue workers at the sites could have trickled down to where they were trapped, but it was only a possibility that could not immediately be confirmed.

The way we see it

Capital penalty should be killed

The demand for the restoration of capital punishment will be carried to the Illinois Senate this week.

Indications are it will be approved by the Senate and signed into law by the governor.

We believe that would be regrettable.

Capital punishment is an antiquated, blood-lust style of punishment that will not help reduce the rate of murder. Murder is a heinous crime and should not go unpunished. But punishing murder by taking life, the eye-for-an-eye philosophy, has no place in modern society.

The new death penalty bill is a limited capital punishment act that should meet the objections raised by the Illinois Supreme Court in 1975 when it threw out the former statute as unconstitutional. It limits capital punishment to those convicted of murdering law enforcement officers and prison guards.

The only person killed in the two-day siege by Hanafi Muslim sect leaders in Washington last week was a young radio reporter. Using the logic of this bill, his murderer might be subjected to imprisonment. But the random bullet that killed him would have brought random death to the killer had it struck a police officer.

Did the friends and relatives of this man love him any less because he was not a police officer? Will their grief in some measure be abated because he did not die in the line of official duty?

Is their need for justice less?

When the death penalty was last debated in Illinois in December, some lawmakers said their support was based on the public's desire for a new law. Succumbing to emotional demands is not the way to set punishment standards. While proponents clamor that the death penalty will deter crime and slow the pace of wanton violence, evidence is lacking.

Instead of pushing for a new death penalty bill, the legislature should push for solutions to the real problems of the state corrections system, for modernization of the criminal justice process and for reform of societal ills that push the crime rate upward.

The new capital punishment act will accomplish none of these ends. It will only create the false impression that our representatives have dealt with the problem.

A birthday greeting for Mr. Durante

The little clown was hilarious and loving. He made millions laugh millions of times. When people wiped their eyes, he would shuffle off, skipping through receding spotlights, doff his beaten fedora, profile his huge nose, and murmur, "Good night Mrs. Calabash, wherever you are."

There was no Mrs. Calabash. There was, and is, a Jimmy Durante. Only one. In show business, it is common to heap accolades on successful rats. There is no superlative fitting to toss at Jimmy Durante. He was a love all his life.

He has reached his 84th birthday. That's mileage. He sits in a wheelchair in his home at 511 North Beverly Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. Sometimes he is pushed into sunlight. Sometimes he faces a huge wall of pictures of all the greats he once knew.

SOME YEARS AGO, Durante had a stroke. It cut him down permanently. He will not be back. Each morning someone will dress him; each day a loving wife will take care of him; each day little CeCe grows taller.

A few of us are afflicted with long memories. We remember that Jimmy's dad, Barthelmeo, had a barber shop in Cherry Hill, N. J. The kid was a poor student in school, but great with the straight razor after hours. His mother, Rosa, didn't want the boy to become a barber. She forced him to study piano.

When Jackie Gleason was born in Brooklyn in 1916, Durante was pounding jazz in Coney Island. He had no monumental talent. What James Francisco had was enthusiasm, a furrowed face and voice, and an ability to whack his friends with a hat.

HE ORGANIZED THE great trio, Clayton, Jackson and Durante, and placed his name last on the billing. They had some bad times. In the days of Prohibition, they worked for gangsters in abandoned warehouses. The pay was a few hundred and a friendly pat on the back.

Who remembers them? They hit Broadway like cascading fireballs. They starred in musicals; they were hits in movies. The little love never learned to speak proper English; the idioms fell from his heart.

We became friends in the late years. We dined at Dinty Moore's and, when a sucker came to the table for an autograph, Durante always placed his inife and fork on a plate, and stood to shake hands. He had a bad marriage and an enduring one that is still alive.

CLAYTON DIED AND waited in the wings. Eddie Jackson got fat and sweated through a horsey stomp. Durante needed nobody, but he had a private payroll that would sink a small bank.

Actors down on their luck got $50 or $100 a week. A woman wrote that she needed new teeth. He never met her. For years, she wrote about a daughter who needed an operation, money for a shiftless husband. It was blackmail. Always she said she would commit suicide if he turned her down. He sent the money.

Cautious actors become rich. The clown didn't understand money. He has no investments. He owns no oil wells. Ten years ago he walked into a suite at the Fontainebleau with a box of Corn Flakes under his arm.

"You gonna retire?" "No. I'll work right to the wire." "What are the Corn Flakes for?:" "I like Corn Flakes. I bring my own box. The management furnishes the milk."

HE WAS CLOWNING and breaking pianos the year five members of his family died. Another time he phoned and hollered, "I like your Chinee house. I'm sending a guy over to paint it." I bristled. "This house is doing fine. It was painted last year."

"I already sent the guy," he said. My wife hurried out front. It was an oil painter with an easel. The painting hangs in the living room. When Lou Clayton was dying. Durante did a closed-circuit show piped into the hospital.

Clayton thought it was on network. Jimmy pretended to tell the world that Lou was recovering, that his doctors promised to have him back on the show in two weeks. Clayton died smiling in his sleep.

These are the silent years. His great ambition, he told me, was to walk little CeCe down to the playground and put her on a pony. "It ain't much," he said, "but if you knew how much of a charge I get out of that kid. Come to think of it, that's the only thing that's mine."

Mrs. Durante turns the aluminum wheelchair. She kisses his bald head. The empty eyes wear shell-rimmed glasses. He'd love to get a birthday card . . .

'Let Dist. 59 voters judge'

Fence post

letters to the editor

Letters must be signed, and no letters will be published anonymously. Letters are subject to condensation, and a maximum length of 300 words is recommended. Direct your mail to the Fence post, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

I live in Elk Grove Twp. Dist. 59 and have not yet decided how I will vote on the question of forming a unit school district.

But please, letter writers from the rest of High School Dist. 214, stop telling those of us in Dist. 59 that we have a moral obligation to pay $2 tax for every dollar that you are willing to pay. This is true even though Elk Grove and Forest View high schools do not have swimming pools when other high schools in the district (Arlington, Wheeling and Buffalo Grove) do have them.

Your letters, printed in The Herald, call those people in favor of a unit school self-centered. They exhort the rest of the voters in Dist. 59 to be "honest" and to have a "sense of well-being toward others." Those of us in this district are happy that we have done more than our share for so many years. But we do resent the fact that instead of gratitude for past favors we are told that we should not have the right to determine for ourselves if we want to continue our generosity.

Do you honestly feel that the rest of Dist. 214 would give a fair evaluation to a plan which forced them, for the first time, to pay their own way?

Those of us who benefit from Centex Industrial Park have also had to bear the burden of traffic jams, extra police and fire protection and the inevitable industrial pollution. But, strangely you don't envy us these by-products of industry. Only our tax income.

When we do make up our minds about how to vote it will not be influenced by the "poor-mouthing" of such affluent suburbs as Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect, but by considering the best interests of the children involved. Especially our own children.

Elk Grove Village

Regarding the letter published in the Fence Post on March 7 on the unit district referendum in Elk Grove Dist. 59 I would like to ask Mrs. Gelhaar why she feels that the education of her children will be affected. After all, I have had a child in Forest View High School for three years and we have never been asked what we would like for our kids. I will continue having children at Forest View High School for another eight years. The people who live outside District 59 have decided for us and have given us the short shift for years. Are your high schools as deprived as ours?

Do you have a nice new high school with a swimming pool and/or field house? We don't and our children have had to do without these for years, plus, all the other educational aspects that are offered in the other part of the district.

However I vote, I feel that I, and the people living within the Dist. 59 area, are the only ones who should be allowed to vote. After all, you people in Wheeling Township don't like industry or business in your area. Your home values would go down and why should you have to put up with the inconvenience of all the cars and people that industry would bring into your area. Well, we moved where there was business and industry and we have to put up with it. Let us make our own decisions, right or wrong. They concern us far more than they concern you.

Librarian's firing loss to community

How disappointed I am to read in the March 8 Herald of the firing of Mrs. Bonita Gill. Her dismissal will be not only the library's loss, but an even greater loss to the community she has served.

During the time she was children's librarian, it was a joy and an anticipation when our preschoolers and teachers planned a trip to the library for storytime with "Miss Bunny." She always added that "something special" for the children whether reading a story, giving a puppet show, or just talking with them in her animated way.

Our 220 children and 10 staff members will miss her!

SCHAUMBURG Park District house at 1301 Sunset Dr.

Park district must end bargain house rental

The Schaumburg Park District ought to get out of the real estate business.

Park board officials proved that the other day when it was reported that they have been renting a three-bedroom house owned by the district for $150 a month. At that price it seems a steal. Because if you've been looking for a one-bedroom apartment in the Northwest suburbs lately, you'd know that $150 a month doesn't rent very much.

To compound the poor business judgment, the board rented the house at 1301 Sunset Dr., Schaumburg, to the nephew of the park district director. He also works for the park district.

What all this means is that Schaumburg taxpayers are getting the short end of the deal.

The park board says it tried to rid itself of the house but thus far has had no luck. We suggest the park board try again.

In the meantime, we suspect there are several real estate companies which would be more than willing to work with the district officials to assure they get maximum return on their investment.

They have only fond memories of son

We, the parents of Cpl. Lucien L. LaRue III, USMC, are very disturbed and deeply hurt in regard to the manner in which The Herald reported our son's tragic death in Monday's issue. The account of his Marine career was accurate. However, other statements were untrue or mistated, some taken out of context, and his important accomplishments prior to joining the Marines were deleted.

Lucien was proud to have been a member of Scout Troop 32, and had earned Scouting's highest rank of Eagle Scout. At Arlington High School he was a member of the tennis team and a leading member of their rifle team. We understand the young reporter's purpose was to emphasize Lucien's maturing since graduating from high school, but we feel the article was poorly written to accomplish this, and with some statements not appropriate.

We are deeply grieved over the untimely, tragic death of our only child. We can not understand God's reason for taking such a fine young man who was gaining such maturity. We fully understand that God works in many ways, and somehow we will learn to accept God's will regarding our son.

Lucien was proud to serve his country. We were proud of him both in his formative years here at home and while he was in the Marines. He was a son to make any parent proud, never causing us or anyone trouble. We have only fond and cherished memories of him. We sincerely wish that all parents may have the good fortune to feel the pride and joy in their children as we feel about our beloved son, Lucien.

Dr. Foy 'an asset' to the community

Let the people who care about Dr. Foy be heard.

He has been an invaluable asset to our community over the years. He has taken me when no other doctor would or could. I always admired the courtesy and genuine concern he displayed to minority groups and I feel sure he probably ended up "donating" his services in many instances.

I appreciated his efforts to educate my young children against smoking — unsolicited. They still remember.

He's what we need more of.

I hope he can continue his practice.

As weather warms, expert warns of leaks in natural gas lines

When seasons change gas leak problems increase, said Bob Kearby of Northern Illinois Gas Co.

"And we're concerned this year a little more than others because the winter weather was more severe and the frost line was deeper than normal," Kearby said. As the frost line moves up, it moves the soil, and the shift causes additional pressure on natural gas ines.

Kearby said this winter's frost line was about four to five feet beneath the earth's surface compared with the usual two-or three-foot frost line.

When a gas line breaks beneath the frost line, the gas is prevented from coming directly to the surface, Kearby said. "This makes it difficult to detremine just where the leak is," he said. NI-Gas has a stepped-up gas leak detection program, including its "sniffer trucks" sent out to monitor possible leaks.

CUSTOMERS WHO smell natural gas should call a utility service office immediately, Kearby said. A service crew will be dispatched to determine whether there is a gas leak, and how severe it is.

"If you smell gas in the house, right at the range, you might want to check the pilot light," Kearby advises. "Open your windows at the top and bottom, so you can ventilate. Immediately go next door and call in to the company, so we can get somebody out there as soon as possible."

Accidental pipeline breaks are caused by people who dig holes for trees, fences and foundations before they check the location of utility lines, Kearby said. "We get a number of people this time of year who hit a line or a main when they're digging, and they cut off their own service," he said.

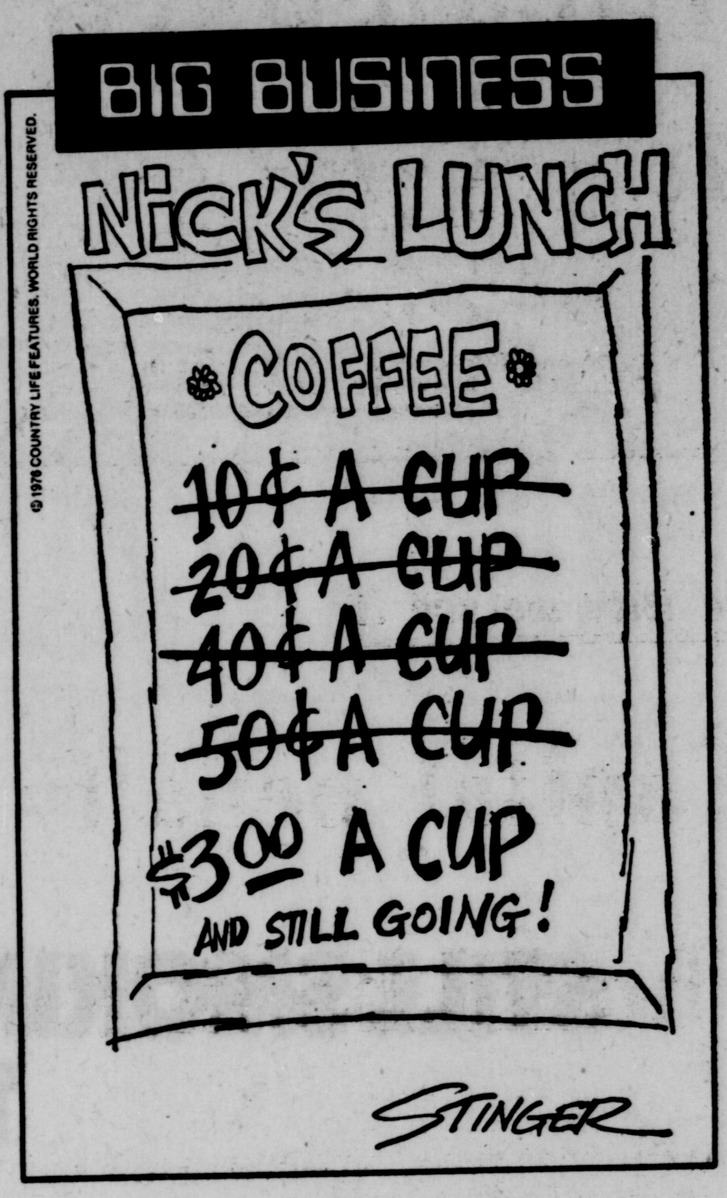

Call-before-you-dig advice is seconded by Mernie Miller, an Arlington Heights representative of Illinois Bell Telephone Co. She said service interruptions may occur during the current season if underground cable becomes wet.

AT THE COMMONWEALTH Edison Co. offices in Mount Prospect, district superintendent Gordon Baer said the frostline is "no greater hardship other than it's taking us a longer time when we have to dig."

There always are water main breaks during the spring, but the worst problem is when the frost sets in the ground, said Don Renner, Arlington Heights Public Works Dept. superintendent of utilities. "The earth always shifts. It's not a stable thing," Renner said.

Renner said it's not unusual to have 10 to 15 water main breaks during winter months such as December and January. In December, 1976, there were 24 breaks, followed by 32 breaks in January, however. "Only 6 or 8 breaks during February and a couple in March" are reported by Renner.

"Usually you can tell when there's a water main break by the bubble of water coming up out of the ground," he said.

Transcontinental air travel costs reduced by CAB

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Civil Aeronautics Board slashed transcontinental air travel costs nearly in half Tuesday, approving discount fares as low as $227 for adults and $206 for children on round-trip flights between New York and California.

Three airlines said they will start offering the new "Super Saver" discount Thursday, although the first travel using the low-cost tickets can not take place until late April because tickets must be purchased at least a month in advance. The Super Saver proposal originated with American Airlines, and the CAB approval was directed specifically at that company.

BUT UNITED Airlines and Trans World Airlines, while opposing American's idea, filed identical requests so they could remain competitive if the CAB approved the discount. Within 90 minutes of the board's action, both companies said they would put their own Super Saver tickets on sale Thursday.

Under the new fare adults can make a round-trip coach flight from coast to coast for between $227 and $268, a saving of between 35 and 45 per cent, with the cost depending on the day of travel. Children can travel at any time for $206, half the present cost.

A normal round-trip coach ticket costs $412.

The board, which in the past has taken months or even years to rule on air fare proposals, approved American's request after just six weeks despite its own misgivings and opposition from other airlines. It said the fare could remain in effect for one year on an experimental basis.

American requested the low-lost fare Jan. 31, saying it was needed to compete with popular Advance Booking Charter fares.

Stocks rally, Dow up 6.65 points

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks, registering their third straight gain despite late profit taking, climbed to their highest level since January Tusday in the heaviest trading of New York Stock Exchange issues in a month.

Wall Street was hopeful the bargain-hunting rally signaled an end to a two-month slump brought about by institutions switching to stocks that pay higher dividends per dollar and by investor uncertainty about the economy.

The Dow Jones industrial average, up about 9 points at one time, gained 6.65 points to 965.01, the highest level since it closed at 965.92 Jan. 25. The blue-chip average's 10.64-point gain Monday was the best in three months.

THE NYSE COMMON stock index rose 0.27 to 55.37 and the average price of a common share increased by 16 cents.

Advances topped declines, 933 to 523, among the 1,918 issues crossing the composite tape, the largest number of stocks traded in months.

Big Board volume totaled 23,940,000 shares, up from the 19,290,000 traded Monday and the heaviest turnover snce 24,044,030 changed hands Feb. 8.

COMPOSITE VOLUME of NYSE issues listed on all exchanges at 4 p.m. EST totaled 27,881,240 shares, compared with 21,169,120 Monday.

Analysts said there was little in the news background to influence the market in either direction. Bargain hunting among blue chips and glamors has been the feature of the rally.

Prices rose in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The market value index gained 0.45 to 112.06 and the average price of a common share increased by 4 cents. Advances topped declines, 367 to 277, among the 930 issues traded. Volume at 4 p.m. totaled 3,090,000 shares, compared with 2,570,000 Monday.

Paddock executive testifies on aging at House hearing

Forced retirement at age 65 is "a double tragedy" according to testimony to be offered the U.S. House Select Committee on Aging today in Washington, D.C. by Robert Y. Paddock, executive vice president of The Paddock Corp.

The double tragedy comes in "depriving the individual o the happiness and satisfaction that are obtained from doing a worthwhile job and depriving the company of the experience of many years," said Paddock, who told the committee his firm has no mandatory retirement age.

The Paddock Corp. publishes the nine daily Herald newspapers in Northwest Cook County and six weekly papers in Lake County.

Paddock was invited to testify as an executive of a small firm to balance out testimony given by national corporate executives.

"We believe in treating our employes as individuals; seniority, experience and loyalty are important, and just because an employe has slowed a bit as he matures is not necessarily sufficient reason for termination at 65."

The firm, with a total full-time and part-time work force of 400, has nine employes older than 65. Several have worked into their 80s, Paddock said.

Business briefs

Bill OKd to repeal chrome import law

The Senate Tuesday approved and sent to President Carter a bill repealing the law that allowed the United States to import Rhodesian chrome in defiance of U.N. sanctions. Completing congressional action on the issue after two days of debate, the Senate approved the repeal legislation by a vote of 66 to 26. The House passed the same bill Monday to the delight of Carter, who wanted the 1971 Rhodesian import law repealed before he addresses the United Nations Thursday. Further consultation between the House and Senate therefore was unnecessary, and the bill went directly to Carter. The President is expected to sign it into law before his scheduled U.N. address.

Bill proposed on pregnancy plans

A bipartisan move was mounted in Congress Tuesday to bypass a recent Supreme Court decision by requiring that pregnancy be included in employer health insurance and sick leave programs. Plans to introduce such legislation were announced by Senators Harrison Williams, D-N.J., and Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., with 86 cosponsors from both parties. The aim is to overcome the Supreme Court ruling in December that exclusion of pregnancy benefits from the health plans is not sex discrimination under terms of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

Saccharin sales soaring

When the producers of Sweet n' Low shut down production last Thursday because of a proposed ban on saccharin, the company had a normal three months supply of the artificial sweetener in its warehouses. Five days later, "It's all gone," according to Ira Eisenstadt, vice president of the Sweet n' Low manufacturers, Cumberland Packing Corp. in New York. Soft drink industry spokesmen report a similar response to the thought that diet soft drinks will not be available in four months when the proposed Food and Drug Administration ban on saccharin may go into effect. "Supermarkets are reporting a rush on diet sodas," one soft drink source said. "People are apparently buying up all they can and storing them in their cellars so they'll have continued supplies when the ban falls." As a result, Sherwin-Williams Co. of Cincinnati, Ohio, America's sole producer of saccharin, said Tuesday that instead of closing down production as planned it was resuming operations.

Firm banned from deceptive hiring

The Federal Trade Commission Tuesday announced a consent order that prohibits American Consumer Service Inc., in Carmel, Ind., from using unfair and deceptive means to recruit sales personnel. The agreement was handled by the FTC's Chicago office. A complaint submitted by the agency staff alleged that the company misrepresented savings available to members through its buying club, the time it would take to recover a major portion of members' investment, the ease with which the buying club could be used and the assistance it would provide members, adding that the firm failed to disclose that shipping charges are not included in its prices and other facts. The agreement prohibits the challenged practices. It also requires that savings claims must be accompanied by disclosure of previous members' savings and that the firm employ a consumer service representative. Two company officials, Mark F. Thorne and Thomas P. Sheehan, were also cited in the order.

Strikes won't halt work: GM

Strikes already under way at three General Motors plants and threatened at two others are not expected to dampen auto industry plans to build a near-record 931,000 cars this month. The planned output is a 40-month high for the industry, which expects 1977 to be its second best year ever. The monthly producton would be third only to March 1973 and 1965. GM's Central Foundry Division plant at Danville, Ill., was closed Monday when 2,100 members of United Auto Workers Local 579 began a strike over unsettled local contract issues. They joined 9,450 workers on strike at GM's Fisher Body plant in Euclid, Ohio, and a Detroit Diesel-Allison plant in Indianapolis. Central Foundry plants in Defiance, Ohio, and Bedford, Ind., face strike threats today and next Tuesday.

Blizzard kills mass of livestock

Ranchers in drift-clogged Colorado Tuesday reported heavy livestock losses in last weekend's blizzard. Gov. J. J. Exon of Nebraska said damage to public power facilities in his state probably would total at least $5 million. Kansas Gov. Robert Bennett scheduled a flying tour to examine damage caused by the 100-mile-an-hour winds and blinding snow that lashed the Great Plains for two days and left at least 18 persons dead.

When your TV set doesn't light up, don't jump to the conclusion that you need a TV servicer. Maybe you forgot ot put the plug back in the wall socket after it was used for something else. Or maybe a fuse burned out on that particular circuit. It's a good idea to check a lamp on that wall socket first to see if there is electricity.

We get our share of calls like this, and one lady remarked, after we called her attention to a burned-out fuse, "Well, as long as you're here, I have a radio that needs fixing and will you put a fuse in for me? They talk about atomic danger and I'm still afraid of electricity."

Stocks rally, Dow up 6.65 points

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks, registering their third straight gain despite late profit taking, climbed to their highest level since January Tusday in the heaviest trading of New York Stock Exchange issues in a month.

Wall Street was hopeful the bargain-hunting rally signaled an end to a two-month slump brought about by institutions switching to stocks that pay higher dividends per dollar and by investor uncertainty about the economy.

The Dow Jones industrial average, up about 9 points at one time, gained 6.65 points to 965.01, the highest level since it closed at 965.92 Jan. 25. The blue-chip average's 10.64-point gain Monday was the best in three months.

THE NYSE COMMON stock index rose 0.27 to 55.37 and the average price of a common share increased by 16 cents.

Advances topped declines, 933 to 523, among the 1,918 issues crossing the composite tape, the largest number of stocks traded in months.

Big Board volume totaled 23,940,000 shares, up from the 19,290,000 traded Monday and the heaviest turnover snce 24,044,030 changed hands Feb. 8.

COMPOSITE VOLUME of NYSE issues listed on all exchanges at 4 p.m. EST totaled 27,881,240 shares, compared with 21,169,120 Monday.

Analysts said there was little in the news background to influence the market in either direction. Bargain hunting among blue chips and glamors has been the feature of the rally.

Prices rose in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The market value index gained 0.45 to 112.06 and the average price of a common share increased by 4 cents. Advances topped declines, 367 to 277, among the 930 issues traded. Volume at 4 p.m. totaled 3,090,000 shares, compared with 2,570,000 Monday.

Paddock executive testifies on aging at House hearing

Forced retirement at age 65 is "a double tragedy" according to testimony to be offered the U.S. House Select Committee on Aging today in Washington, D.C. by Robert Y. Paddock, executive vice president of The Paddock Corp.

The double tragedy comes in "depriving the individual o the happiness and satisfaction that are obtained from doing a worthwhile job and depriving the company of the experience of many years," said Paddock, who told the committee his firm has no mandatory retirement age.

The Paddock Corp. publishes the nine daily Herald newspapers in Northwest Cook County and six weekly papers in Lake County.

Paddock was invited to testify as an executive of a small firm to balance out testimony given by national corporate executives.

"We believe in treating our employes as individuals; seniority, experience and loyalty are important, and just because an employe has slowed a bit as he matures is not necessarily sufficient reason for termination at 65."

The firm, with a total full-time and part-time work force of 400, has nine employes older than 65. Several have worked into their 80s, Paddock said.

Bill OKd to repeal chrome import law

The Senate Tuesday approved and sent to President Carter a bill repealing the law that allowed the United States to import Rhodesian chrome in defiance of U.N. sanctions. Completing congressional action on the issue after two days of debate, the Senate approved the repeal legislation by a vote of 66 to 26. The House passed the same bill Monday to the delight of Carter, who wanted the 1971 Rhodesian import law repealed before he addresses the United Nations Thursday. Further consultation between the House and Senate therefore was unnecessary, and the bill went directly to Carter. The President is expected to sign it into law before his scheduled U.N. address.

Bill proposed on pregnancy plans

A bipartisan move was mounted in Congress Tuesday to bypass a recent Supreme Court decision by requiring that pregnancy be included in employer health insurance and sick leave programs. Plans to introduce such legislation were announced by Senators Harrison Williams, D-N.J., and Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., with 86 cosponsors from both parties. The aim is to overcome the Supreme Court ruling in December that exclusion of pregnancy benefits from the health plans is not sex discrimination under terms of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

Saccharin sales soaring

When the producers of Sweet n' Low shut down production last Thursday because of a proposed ban on saccharin, the company had a normal three months supply of the artificial sweetener in its warehouses. Five days later, "It's all gone," according to Ira Eisenstadt, vice president of the Sweet n' Low manufacturers, Cumberland Packing Corp. in New York. Soft drink industry spokesmen report a similar response to the thought that diet soft drinks will not be available in four months when the proposed Food and Drug Administration ban on saccharin may go into effect. "Supermarkets are reporting a rush on diet sodas," one soft drink source said. "People are apparently buying up all they can and storing them in their cellars so they'll have continued supplies when the ban falls." As a result, Sherwin-Williams Co. of Cincinnati, Ohio, America's sole producer of saccharin, said Tuesday that instead of closing down production as planned it was resuming operations.

Firm banned from deceptive hiring

The Federal Trade Commission Tuesday announced a consent order that prohibits American Consumer Service Inc., in Carmel, Ind., from using unfair and deceptive means to recruit sales personnel. The agreement was handled by the FTC's Chicago office. A complaint submitted by the agency staff alleged that the company misrepresented savings available to members through its buying club, the time it would take to recover a major portion of members' investment, the ease with which the buying club could be used and the assistance it would provide members, adding that the firm failed to disclose that shipping charges are not included in its prices and other facts. The agreement prohibits the challenged practices. It also requires that savings claims must be accompanied by disclosure of previous members' savings and that the firm employ a consumer service representative. Two company officials, Mark F. Thorne and Thomas P. Sheehan, were also cited in the order.

Strikes won't halt work: GM

Strikes already under way at three General Motors plants and threatened at two others are not expected to dampen auto industry plans to build a near-record 931,000 cars this month. The planned output is a 40-month high for the industry, which expects 1977 to be its second best year ever. The monthly producton would be third only to March 1973 and 1965. GM's Central Foundry Division plant at Danville, Ill., was closed Monday when 2,100 members of United Auto Workers Local 579 began a strike over unsettled local contract issues. They joined 9,450 workers on strike at GM's Fisher Body plant in Euclid, Ohio, and a Detroit Diesel-Allison plant in Indianapolis. Central Foundry plants in Defiance, Ohio, and Bedford, Ind., face strike threats today and next Tuesday.

Blizzard kills mass of livestock

Ranchers in drift-clogged Colorado Tuesday reported heavy livestock losses in last weekend's blizzard. Gov. J. J. Exon of Nebraska said damage to public power facilities in his state probably would total at least $5 million. Kansas Gov. Robert Bennett scheduled a flying tour to examine damage caused by the 100-mile-an-hour winds and blinding snow that lashed the Great Plains for two days and left at least 18 persons dead.

When your TV set doesn't light up, don't jump to the conclusion that you need a TV servicer. Maybe you forgot ot put the plug back in the wall socket after it was used for something else. Or maybe a fuse burned out on that particular circuit. It's a good idea to check a lamp on that wall socket first to see if there is electricity.

We get our share of calls like this, and one lady remarked, after we called her attention to a burned-out fuse, "Well, as long as you're here, I have a radio that needs fixing and will you put a fuse in for me? They talk about atomic danger and I'm still afraid of electricity."

Keep calling that number 255-0700. Landwehr's TV & Appliance Center, 1000 W. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights wants to be of service.

Men strive to even the odds in divorce

by VALERIE BERG

Although nobody wins in the divorce game, the cards are stacked in favor of the woman.

So say some men who consider themselves victims of unfair play.

While not necessarily condemning all women, men's rights groups ADAM — American Divorce Association for Men — and A$DM — America's $ociety of Divorced Men — are attempting to change or beat the rules they say deny them their rights.

The two nonprofit organizations, though unrelated, have a common aim: equality and justice for men in the divorce process. Neither group claims to practice law, but advises clients of their rights and the problems they may encounter while going through a divorce.

ADAM's national — and only — office is in the Arlington Heights home of president Lou Filczer. Although he has paralegal experience and is studying law, Filczer says his most important experience has come from living as a divorced man with custody of his son.

HE DESCRIBES HIS organization as "an educational process to know what to expect when you're looking over the hill" at a divorce. ADAM informs clients of statutory laws, gives them psychological and emotional support and refers them to lawyers, marriage counselors and investigators that the organization believes are responsive to best interests of men. It also provides information on obtaining a divorce without the services of a lawyer.

"One of the biggest pitfalls is finding an ethical, zealous attorney to represent you," Filczer says. "From a man's viewpoint, there is a lot of selling out. The lawyer isn't always concerned with the man's best interests."

Although the divorce courts are taking a more positive view toward men, he says, about 90 per cent of the cases are decided in the lawyer's office, where a lot of bias enters.

"ADAM is devoted to cleaning up the legal system," Filczer says. "We want to take divorce out of the hands of the legal profession and place it in the hands of psychiatrists, counselors, sex therapists, accountants, to clean it up."

ONE CHANGE ADAM would like to see is the adoption of a law requiring family counseling before a couple can go through divorce.

"In our society, there's really no place between the acrimony and the alimony. There's no middle ground," says Bruce Johnson, a divorced psychotherapist and one of the founders of ADAM.

"When you're talking about divorce you're talking about anger. If you could just learn how to handle it. If you can learn to live with your differences with your boss and your kids, why can't you with your spouse?"

Johnson says that although many men aren't sure they want a divorce, the divorce process is not conducive to reconciliation because things said in arbitration can be used later as damaging evidence in court. He favors a law prohibiting such statements from being admissible in court.

For similar reasons, ADAM is opposed to no-fault divorce laws and has lobbied against previous no-fault bills in Illinois. A compromise no-fault bill is pending in the Ilinois legislature. Filczer predicts that passage of no-fault will make divorce too easily obtainable, leading to an increase in divorce rates in Illinois.

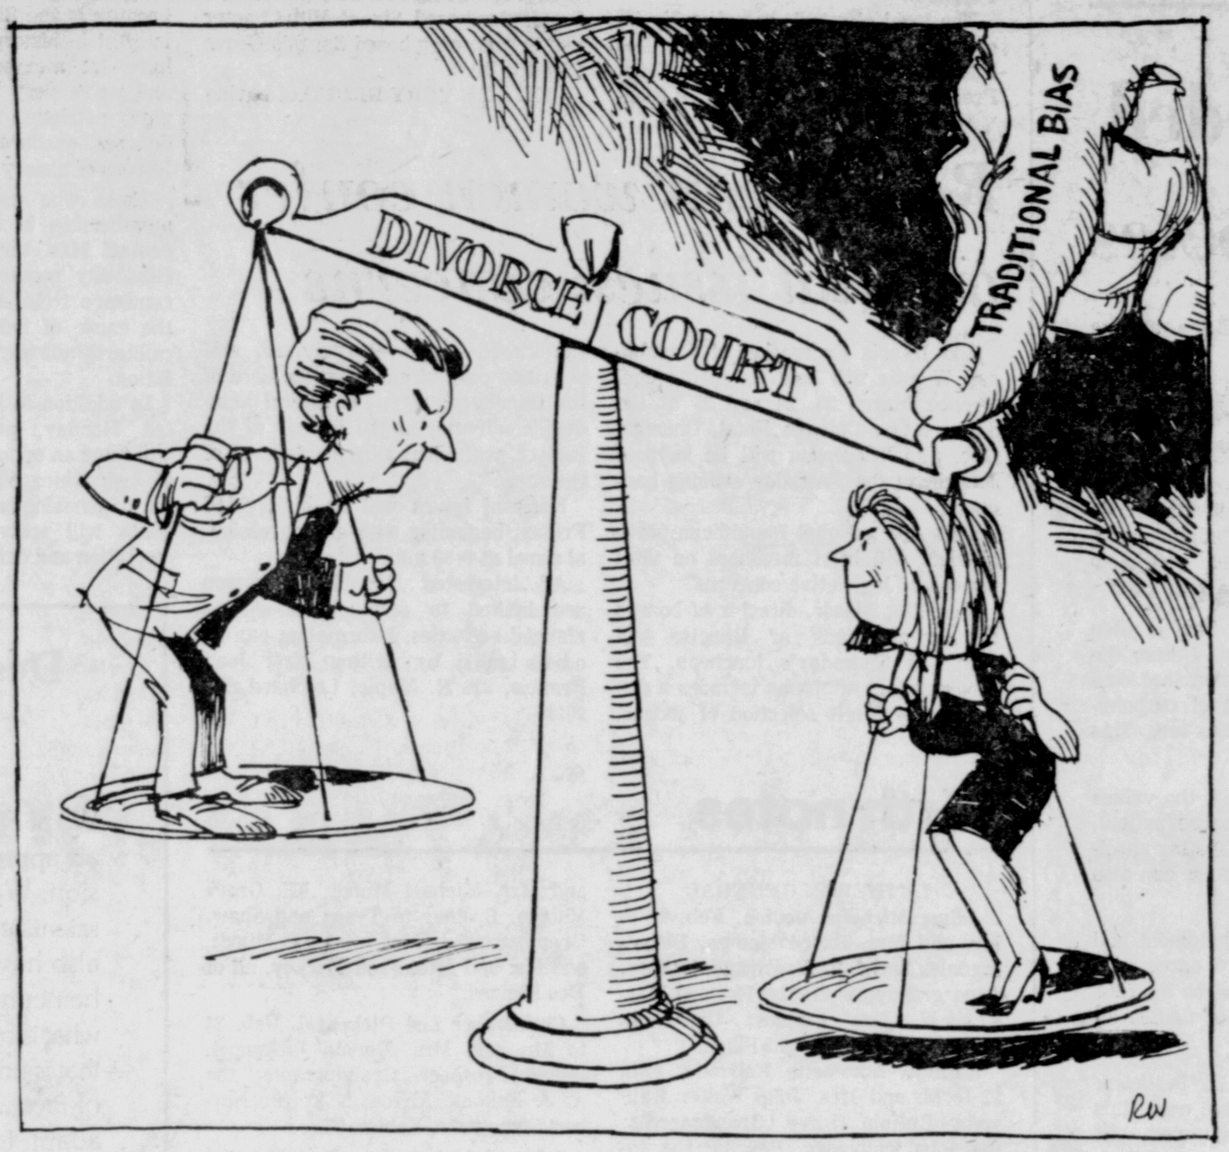

HE MAINTAINS THAT under the current fault system the defendant, usually the male, can defend himself in court and fight to keep his marriage together.

"A no-fault system takes away the rights of the defendant to defend. As a defendant, male or female, that person won't have any rights. The defendant won't have the right to say 'I don't want a divorce, I want to defend myself.' "

If a no-fault law must be passed, Filczer says, it should contain a mutual consent clause under which a couple can divorce without fault if they agree their marriage is irreconcilable.

"A good percentage of our members' goals are to keep the marriage together. Just because we have the word divorce in our name doesn't mean we don't want to keep the marriage together," he says.

ADAM was founded in 1970 by Filczer, Johnson and another friend, all divorced and having custody of their children. The organization has about 7,000 members, about 60 per cent of whom live in the Chicago area. For $40 a year, a client receives an associate membership entitling him to two conferences and an information kit on divorce and marital issues. For $70 a year, he gets those plus referrals to lawyers, counselors and other professionals. All persons on the referral list are pledged to allow ADAM's clients one free 40-minute session without obligation.

IN CONTRAST TO Lou Filczer's low-keyed manner. A$DM president Dick Templeton rambles rapid-fire about his international organization, whose only office is an Elgin store-front. "All we want to do is give our clients a fair shake," he says. "We believe there has been a great discrimination for men in divorce cases."

Templeton, a former New York public relations man, says his own experience as a divorced person qualifies him to guide others through the emotional battle. "I was ripped off so badly that I was dedicated to righting some wrongs."

But he repeatedly insists he is neither a male chauvinist nor opposed to equality for women — in fact, he says, he deals with many women such as mothers, sisters and second wives of clients.

He stresses the "responsibility" of his clients as often as he denies his male chauvinism. He says he is able to screen out "irresponsible" men such as wife beaters, drunks and the like in the initial interview and has even refused several clients.

"We feel that the man has the responsibility to his children, but should have the opportunity and right to his children, too.

"IF A WOMAN gets custody of the child, by gosh, we have to have him pay child support. At the same time, women should have to pay child support if a man has custody of the kids.

"Even if it's only a small amount, like $10 a week," he explains, in a situation where the mother earns drastically less salary than her ex-husband.

Templeton says that he advises clients to see a clergyman or counselor if they think their marriage can be saved.

"We are not advocates of divorce. If there is an opportunity for the marriage to be saved, we want it to be saved."

In fact, he believes that under different circumstances, divorce rates would fall.

"We believe that if a woman knew she had a 50-50 chance of losing the kids, had no chance for alimony and had to pay her own attorney's fees, the divorce rate would drop 25 per cent.

"THROUGH THE SOCIAL structure, women are used to getting everyting."

If A$DM had its way, a woman no longer would get permanent alimony unless she was physically or mentally incapable of earning a living. In the case of a women without any job skills, Templeton says, it is permissible to receive a lump sum or temporary settlement to help her until she finds a job.

A$DM also advocates that clients live at home until the divorce is granted instead of paying for separate maintenances — lunless they are "irresponsible" men such as wife beaters or drunks.

Unlike ADAM, A$DM thinks that no-fault divorce is fine — for the minority of cases in which there are no children involved. Otherwise, Templeton says, there must be an adversary situation.

"In no-fault states, what happens to the kids? There's no evidence to prove she's an unfit mother, so she automatically gets them."

HE IS IRRITATED that men suffer "bad publicity" in the issue of child support even though they are not always at fault. He cites one case in which a mother, having custody of her children, removed them from their home state while their father was held liable for support payments even though he did not know where to send the money.

The organization's information booklet includes 50-odd pages of publicity for the man's point of view. Along with numerous testimonials of former A$DM clients, the booklet contains reprints of articles on fatherhood and men's rights and reprints of newspaper stories about cases of mothers abusing their children.

The membership fee is $50, which entitles a client to an unlimited number of phone or office conferences for a year, referrals to attorneys and counselors and Templeton's check-up calls. He numbers his membership in the "thousands."

As might be expected, the legal profession is less than enthusiastic about ADAM and A$DM.

"I think they are emotionally disturbed people. All people going through a divorce are going through a lot of mental turmoil. Some can handle it easier than others," says Stanton L. Ehrlich, the immediate past president of the American Academy of Matrimonial Lawyers and a former president of the Illinois Bar Association.

HE SAYS THE no-fault bill pending in the Illinois Legislature is a compromise in which the grounds of no-fault are added to the existing ground for divorce. Those grounds include physical or mental cruelty, desertion, adultery, habitual drunkenness, drug addiction, bigamy, impotence and conviction of a felony.

Under the no-fault proposal, fault charges may be leveled in a divorce case, but the court can choose to dissolve the marriage on the basis of irreconcilable differences.

Ehrlich denies the charge that the divorce rate in Illinois will rise if the no-fault bill is passed.

"Absolutely not. The divorce numbers keep going up because the population is increasing, but the rate won't change one iota."

Although ADAM charges that no-fault divorce would prevent a defendant from being able to save his marriage, Ehrlich says that doesn't happen now. He says judges rarely deny divorces.

"THERE ARE DAMN few reconciliations, especially after they have been to lawyers. The die is cast and there is very little turning back.

"What good is it to deny a divorce to someone who really wants it?"

All persons, male or female, initiate a divorce for justifiable reasons, Ehrlich says. "Nobody likes to get a divorce. Nobody likes to admit that they've failed."

He says that generally in divorce suits, the lawyers confer and negotiate with the judge and then present their proposals to the clients.

"The lawyers know what is fair and proper and reasonable in a settlement," Ehrlich says. "We know what the judges will do. All lawyers should be professional people and not do something because their client wants them to do it."

He says that although a majority of women get property rights or alimony unless they are far better able to take care of themselves than their husbands are, there has been a slight increase in the number of men awarded custody of their childdren.

"TODAY IT'S NOT so much a matter of proving her (the mother) unfit as it is determining what is in the best interests of the child. There is no automatic rule of thumb that the wife has to get the children." Under a no-fault law, too, he says, the court would use the "same criteria to determine who gets child custody.

And when a parent receives custody of the child, Illinois statute prevents that parent from taking the child out of the state permanently unless the court grants the parent that right. The parent may have to post bond to insure the return of the child.

No matter who wins the children, the house or the money, the divorce game is no fun for anyone to play. Yet hundreds of thousands continue to play it each year, with both players fighting for the prizes.

"The name of the game is money," Dick Templeton says emphatically. "Money, money, money, that's what keeps this divorce racket working."

These offer help

There are many organizations that offer help to persons and families going through the trauma of divorce.

To find a lawyer specializing in divorce, one can ask any lawyer for a referral to a lawyer on the American Academy of Matrimonial Lawyers List of Certified Fellows.

The Divorce Institute in Evanston offers rap groups, seminars and workshops on the emotional and legal aspects of divorce. More information may be obtained at 864-2100.

Divorce Anonymous, structured like Alcoholics Anonymous, hold two regular meetings a month. Meetings include speakers and rap sessions and are held at two locations, the Loop and the northwest side of Chicago. Its number is 342-9325.

DIVORCED DISCIPLES, sponsored by the Catholic Church, is a non-denominational program offering weekend retreats for separated and divorced persons. The retreats, offered throughout the Chicagoland area, emphasize inner and spiritual growth. For further information, interested persons may contact Father Laz at 625-1119.

A newly organized group, Children Helped in Litigated Divorce (CHILD), is seeking input from persons interested in the problems of children of divorced parents. It hopes to offer workshops and discussions and to compile a referral list of available help for families involved in divorce. Information may be obtained at 641-5853.

New book gives advice

Retirees can turn a profit at home

by HAROLD BLEUMENFELD

One of the greatest traumas of retirement, particularly when it is mandatory, is getting by on a reduced income. Retirement usually means a sharp drop in finances and, of necessity, a change in life style. This is particularly true if one has to live on Social Security alone, or even with a small additional pension or interest on investments.

Problems of how to get extra income to keep up with the rising costs of living may be answered in an excellent new book "Profits at Your Doorstep" by Judith Weber und Karol White (Hawthorn books, $7.95), which is a complete guide for setting up a full or part-time business in one's home. Although the book is not primarily aimed at the older person, it contains much detailed information to help a retiree get started in a new business venture.

THE BOOK IS written for anyone who wants to be his or her own boss. It covers everything about running a home-based enterprise, including aptitude tests which should reveal whether or not the reader's personality is suitable for a home business. It deals with developing and expanding the business, handling the special tax requirements set up for persons working out of their homes and much other pertinent information. Included is a series of case histories of men and women who have launched successful careers either on a full or part-time basis. There are lists of addresses of companies and organizations where additional information on starting one's business can be obtained.

One thing is certain, say the authors: it is not necessary to give up everything else in order to start a home career. Turning a hobby into a successful business not only expands the family's income, but, in many cases, it has led to full-time occupations. And there are limitless possibilities for profit at home: turning a love of cooking into a catering firm or cooking or baking school; making and selling craft products; photography; teaching music or languages; restoring furniture and antiques or old automobiles; free-lance writing and market research.The possibilities are endless.

Some might say, "I'm not artsy-craftsy or I'm not creative or handy." The book tells you not to despair. There are salaried and commissioned jobs which can be performed at home by using your head, and not your hands. One homebody does clerical work at home and provides an answering service for an acting school for which she is paid a monthly salary.

Someone else works for a large New York marketing research firm doing surveys and receives a regular paycheck. Someone else is doing a thriving commission business selling the latest fashions from her home.

AS I LOOK about among my own friends and acquaintances, I can cite many instances where ingenuity and a little spare time paid off. The daughter of one of my newspapermen friends began to make babies' bibs out of attractive towels. She took the samples to one of the largest New York department stores and they grabbed up all she could produce. A friend teaches foreign languages; a nephew takes pictures at social functions; some do freelance photography; etc. You might have other skills lying dormant that could be turned into dollars.

I am not suggesting that the financial returns will make overnight tycoons. But the book might just give you some ideas as to how you might help meet the ever-increasing cost of living and enjoy life by being productive.

Naked truth could kill

Women and children first

Dear Attorney Martoccio,

It always amuses me — and makes me angry, too — to read about someone who's arrested for dancing nude in a public place claiming a constitutional right to do it. Freedom of speech, and even expression, is one thing. But nude dancing in a bar?

If this right is upheld, I see no reason why a person wouldn't have the right to walk around the streets with nothing on. After all it's a public place, too.—Kay.

Dear Kay,

You don't? I do! Letting people walk around on public streets that way could very well be a form of mass suicide. One look at the naked truth and we'd probably all die laughing!

Dear Ms. Martoccio,

Can you tell me briefly how I can dispose of my property without a will and probate?

Yes. But would you want to? The methods include gifts, outright or in the form of trusts of property held in joint ownership.

There are many reasons why a person should have a will and one is that it gives him "the last word" in how he wants his property to be distributed after he's gone. It can be a few dollars or possessions or vast wealth. After all, dying is the last thing a person wants to do.

All in a Lawyer/Columnist's Day . . . From E.T.:

A lawyer and his neighbor of many years had a habit of walking to the train station togethe' every morning during which time the neighbor asking the lawyer many legal questions. After several tiring years, the lawyer sent his neighbor a "bill for services rendered." The following day, the neighbor met the lawyer on the street.

"Hello, nice day . . . and I'm telling you, not asking you!"

Thanks, E.T., and let this be a word of warning, now that spring is here!

Would you believe? . . . that as recently as two years ago, Idaho was discriminating against women in such a way that it bordered on the ridiculous? At that time, and for some time before it, males were given preference as administrators of an estate.

The situation was clarified and corrected when a mother who sought to become administrator of her son's estate was denied the role in favor of her estranged husband and father of the boy. In all, the estate amounted to less than $1,000. The U.S. Supreme Court struck a final blow to that bit of discrimination when it ruled that such a preference violated the equal protection clause of the 14th amendment.

The doctor says

Careful test needed to diagnose diabetes

My doctor told me I was a diabetic after he did a glucose tolerance test. I am on a strict diet — no medication.

Then I read this item in the paper that said the glucose tolerance tests are usually wrong and should not be used to make a diagnosis of diabetes. I have begun to wonder and would like your opinion.

The comments you read in the paper need to be put into proper perspective. Doctors are trained to use their clinical judgment, not just the results from a laboratory test. A good doctor will know how much weight to put on the test he had performed in your case.

It is true that many false positive tests do occur. This is often because the patient has not been properly prepared. Unless the patient already has diabetes or has a medical condition that contra-indicates it, he should eat an abundant amount of carbohydrates, starches and sweets for three days before the test. This will prevent false positive tests in many cases.

It also depends on how severe the test results are. If the values go very high and stay very high in a properly prepared patient, the condition is not so equivocal or borderline. If the fasting specimen is abnormally high to a significant degree, the doctor can also be fairly sure about your diagnosis.

So my advice is to depend on your doctor's good judgment and let him worry about the interpretation of your test. I agree with your doctor's idea of reducing a patient and using diet as the first step in management when that is possible. Sometimes that is all that is needed.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-11, Diabetes: Diagnosis, Prevention and Management. Others who want this information can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self addressed envelope for mailing. Just write to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

I am 52 years old. I have not been in bad health at all. I feel I have passed the menopause. I have read that you recommend a quart of milk a day for women in my category to prevent a calcium deficiency that could lead to softening of the bones. What substitute could I possibly use? Milk causes gas on my stomach and since I am working with many people, milk is not the answer for me.

It sounds like you have lactose intolerance — inability to split the double sugar, lactose, in milk. That usually causes gas and digestive complaints.

You can take calcium pills if you wish — enough to get about 1 gram (1000 milligrams) of calcium a day. You may want to try Lact-Aid, the enzyme substance that you can put in your milk to split lactose before you use the milk. The normal intestine contains this enzyme but some people, quite a few, do not produce enough of the enzyme when they become adults and have an intolerance to milk. Those who want to try this product can write to SugarLo Co., 3540 Atlantic Ave., Atlantic City, N.J. 08404, for more information on the product.

Recipe for prune cake repeated for reader

Dear Dorothy: I seem to have lost my recipe for the prune cake which has a buttermilk topping and the family is all "shook up" about it. — Mrs. La Monte Chalmers

Delighted to repeat a recipe that seems to have won over everyone who has ever tasted it. Many have written to ask why the cake is baked in layers, why the sauce goes on while the cake is warm, and so on. The cake is one of the specialties of Kentucky's famous Beaumont Inn at Harrodsburg. I've never asked why they do this or that. All I know is that it's luscious and here it is exactly as it comes from the Inn: Mix together three eggs beaten whole, one cup vegetable oil, one and one-half cups sugar, one cup buttermilk (in which is dissolved one and one-half teaspoons soda), one teaspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon nutmeg, one teaspoon allspice, one teaspoon vanilla, two cups flour, one cup prunes (cooked and cut) and one cup chopped nuts. Pour into two 9-inch layer pans and bake at 300 degrees for 45 minutes.

While the cake is baking, make the following sauce: Stir in a saucepan one cup sugar, one-half cup buttermilk (in which is dissolved one-half teaspoon soda), one tablespoon white syrup, three-fourths stick butter and one-half teaspoon vanilla. Boil about one minute and pour over the cake while it's still warm. Scrumptious.

DAR tea fetes newcomers

New and prospective members of Twenty-first Star Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution will be honored at the group's annual spring tea at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the home of Mrs. John W. Parsons, Mount Prospect.

The local chapter's membership includes residents of Park Ridge, Des Plaines, northwest Chicago, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, Glenview, Morton Grove and Arlington Heights.

The chapter previously included members farther west, but when membership from those western communities became strong enough, that groups split from 21st Star to form the Barrington-based Signal Hill Chapter and Schaumburg-based Sarah's Grove Chapter DAR.

"WE ARE VERY PROUD of having fostered two new chapters of our patriotic, educational society," said Mrs. Harold Yepsen, regent of 21st Star. "Both these daughter chapters are well established, active groups now."

"Our chapter is booming too, partly because of the Bicentennially inspired interest in history and genealogy. We have 124 members, the most ever, and we're very active in philanthrophic, patriotic, and educational endeavors, encouraging respect for the lessons of history."

Those who wish to inquire about membership in 21st Star DAR may contact Mrs. Virgil Liptrap, 823-8790. Eligibility requirements include descendance from a patriot who served the cause of independence civilly or militarily during the American Revolution.

In addition to being honored at the tea Monday, prospective members will have an opportunity next Tuesday to visit Chicago's Newberry Library for a genealogical workshop. Participants will travel by public transportation and carry sack lunches.

Weddings

Laury Stuart–Keith Youngquist

A busy bride was Laury Ellen Stuart, who somehow found time not only to make her own bridal gown and those of her attendants, but also made the groom's wedding ring.

Laury is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Stuart of Danville, Ill. Her marriage to Keith Eugene Youngquist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Youngquist of Mount Prospect, took place Feb. 19 at Danville's St. James United Methodist Church. The double ring ceremony was conducted by candlelight, with a background color scheme of cranberry and off-white.

The bride's gown was of off-white satin, the bodice trimmed in white pearls. Her veil of tulle and lace fell from a white pearl Juliette cap. She carried a lighted candle surrounded by miniature red roses, champagne-hued daisies and baby's breath.

CLAD IN cranberry velvet gowns and pearl-trimmed cranberry velvet caps, the bridal attendants also carried a lighted candle with the same flowers. Nancy Hughes of Danville was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Kathy Swanson, Pekin, Ill.; Debbie Anderson, Danville. Jan Kirkpatrick, Carbondale, Ill; and junior bridesmaid, Jeanne Stuart, the bride's sister.

Six-year-old Beth Curry of Danville served as flower girl. Her outfit mached those of the other attendants. The groom's nephew, Adam J. Youngquist, 7, of Colorado Springs, served as ring bearer.

Keith's brother, Paul, served as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Youngquist

Groomsmen were his brothers, Dr. H. Warren Youngquist of Colorado Springs, and Dr. Robert R. Youngquist of Mount Prospect. Hugh Wiedman of Miami, Fla., and Donald Liston of Des Moines, Iowa, were the ushers.

THE RAMADA Inn in Danville was the scene of the reception for 230 guests. The newlyweds later traveled to Breckinridge, Colo., for a 2-week skiing vacation. They now live in Mount Prospect.

Laury, who holds a bachelor's degree in graphic arts from the University of Illinois, plans to attend graduate school in the fall, working for a master of science degree in architecture. Keith, a 1972 Prospect High School graduate, received his bachelor of science degree in architecture in May 1976 from the University of Illinois, Urbana.

Debi Fischer-Skip Skinner

In a rust, cream and brown color setting at St. James Catholic Church, Arlington Heights, a pair of Hersey High School graduates became man and wife. Debi Fischer, daugher of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Fischer, Arlington Heights, married Skip Skinner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Kinner, also of Arlington Heights, in a 5 p.m. double-ring ceremony on Feb. 26.

Debi wore a white jersey gown with long, full sleeves, beaded bodice and long train. A long veil and a bouquet of white orchids, rust baby's breath and yellow roses completed her ensemble.

MAID OF HONOR was Rhonda Umphress of Palatine who wore a gown of rust velour with cream lace accenting the neckline. Her flowers were rust carnations, cream baby's breath and yellow roses.

The bride's cousin, 4-year-old Tiffany Bartalone of Elk Grove Village, wore a long cream knit dress with a rust velour sash as she served as flower girl.

Skip chose his uncle, Bob Shafer of River Grove, to be best man and Debi's brother, Brian, was groomsman. The reception was held in the Camelot Restaurant, with 150 guests attending.

Mr. and Mrs. Skip Skinner

The new Mr. and Mrs. Skinner plan to make Wisconsin their home. Skip graduated from Hersey in 1971, Debi in 1972. She also graduated from the Arlington Academy of Beauty, 1976.

Mormon records used in research

by DUSTON HARVEY

Medical researchers are using the genealogy records of the Mormon Church in a search for the genetic roots of cancer and other diseases.

As a first step, scientists at LDS Hospital and the University of Utah Medical Center are putting family histories into a computer.

Dr. Mark Skolnick, the population geneticist heading the team, anticipates it will be another year before researchers are ready to compare the geneologies of 250,000 Mormon families with medical records to test several genetic hypotheses about disease.

Their research could help in the early detection and prevention of cancer and other diseases, says Dr. Homer Warner of the university's medical biophysics and computing department.

THE RESEARCH IS funded by a National Cancer Institute grant. It first will try to determine whether cancer runs in families.

If a strong family relationship is found, search will begin for distinguishing traits of cancer-prone families.

Warner hopes to find a relationship between certain genetic markers, such as fingerprints, and cancer, and use them to identify high-risk individuals within families.

"If a family at risk can be identified, then it might be possible to identify individuals within that family who have traits corresponding to genes which might predispose them to cancer," he said.

"By identifying these people early, we can expose them to unusual detection efforts that would be cost-prohibitive to carry out for the entire population. With such thorough testing, we should be able to identify many lesions before they become malignant.

"We also can improve cancer prevention by counseling these people on environmental dangers, such as poor diet and smoking, which may trigger the start of cancer."

SKOLNICK ALREADY has used family relationships to find individuals who have a high risk of contracting Wilson's disease, a neurological disorder that can destroy the liver.

The researchers also hope to apply their approach to coronary heart disease, cerebral vascular disease and the whole spectrum of illness, using the huge collection of genealogical data on members of The Church of Latter-day Saints. Each member is encouraged by the church to fill out a four-generation family chart to be filed in the church office building here.

Photocopies of family charts are put in an LDS Hospital computer that can reconstruct a detailed family history of Utah's entire Mormon Church population.

The researchers hope to link the history to hospital medical records, death records and the state's cancer registry. They also will search medical files for all persons having a particular disease, then locate the patients in the geneoolgical files to determine interrelationships.

"This will provide an invaluable resource for genetic research, not only for investigators at this institution, but all over the world," Warner said.

Solid treatment of hockey violence

The controversy that has been surrounding the game of hockey the past few seasons, the charge that the game is excessively violent, will be the crust of a CBS drama tonight, "The Deadliest Season."

National Hockey League officials are concerned that the two-hour special, beginning at 8 p.m. on Channel 2, will hurt the game. That's probably because the fictionalized drama is so close to the truth.

Producers Herbert Brodkin and Buzz Berger were obviously inspired by the 1975 indictment of Boston Bruin player Dave Forbes for his stick-assault on Henry Boucha. Boucha's eye was badly injured but Forbes excaped any punishment because of a hung jury.

MICHAEL MORIARTY

VIOLENCE IN professional hockey has only increased since that time. Several players are in the NHL strictly because of their willingness to fight.

In the past two years players like Dan Maloney and Rick Jadzio have been cited for attacking other players.

On the other hand, there have been hockey players, like former Chicago Plack Hawks star Bobby Hull, who have threatened to retire if violence wasn't cleaned up.

With that in mind, "The Deadliest Season" is a realistic picture of hockey today and perhaps even slightly more sedate than the real thing.

It is the story of a slow-witted, mediocre hockey player named Gerry Miller, adeptly protrayed by Michael Moriarty, who has dreamed of playing in the big leagues since he was a kid.

Miller is coldly and abruptly removed from the professional leagues and sent to the minors for lack of aggressiveness on the ice.

HE REFUSES to fight back. It's not the way the game should be played, Miller says. But, friends and coaches insist that the fans come out to see the fights and hear the smack of bodies and sticks against the sideboards. It is violence and force on the ice that fill seats.

Evenutally, Miller yields to their demands to get his spot back on a major league team. He comes out fighting, is nicknamed the "Penalty Killer" and made a hero.

Then, the inevitable occurs. Miller and a member of the opposition, who also is a good friend of his, get into a fight. Miller spears the player in the gut and jumps on him when he's down on the ice.

The player dies of a ruptured spleen and Miller is charged with manslaughter — flung into an agonizing and over-publicized trial.

THE DEFENSE contends that hockey is just a violent game, that everyone on the ice has to accept the consequences.

The prosecution argues that hockey players have become nothing more than hired "hatchetmen, paid to beat men and spill their blood on the ice." It has become a vicious game under the direction of team owners scrambling to make a profit, they say.

Through it all, Miller's life and career are left stranded between the two arguments. He realizes he is a puppet and discovers that he is capable of killing.

"It's a story about personal responsibility in not just hockey, but any sport or profession. It's about the pressures of success that can lead you to do things you never thought you were capable of," said Moriarty, who has won a Tony Award for his role in "Find Your Way Home" and an Emmy Award for his role in "The Glass Menagerie."

HIS OTHER athletic roles include the film "Bang the Drum Slowly", which was about the trials and tribulations of a baseball pitcher.

Moriarty, 35, had to learn how to skate on the ice to portray Miller in "The Deadliest Season." The skating scenes in the film are not terribly convincing, although former hockey players were used.

The scenes that will set viewers thinking are the ones related to the trial which Miller's wife, played by Meryl Streep, painfully endures.

"The Deadliest Season" is a fine television drama. It imparts a lesson of moral conscience that can be beneficial and understood by more than just hockey enthusiasts.

Solid treatment of hockey violence

The controversy that has been surrounding the game of hockey the past few seasons, the charge that the game is excessively violent, will be the crust of a CBS drama tonight, "The Deadliest Season."

National Hockey League officials are concerned that the two-hour special, beginning at 8 p.m. on Channel 2, will hurt the game. That's probably because the fictionalized drama is so close to the truth.

Producers Herbert Brodkin and Buzz Berger were obviously inspired by the 1975 indictment of Boston Bruin player Dave Forbes for his stick-assault on Henry Boucha. Boucha's eye was badly injured but Forbes excaped any punishment because of a hung jury.

VIOLENCE IN professional hockey has only increased since that time. Several players are in the NHL strictly because of their willingness to fight.

In the past two years players like Dan Maloney and Rick Jadzio have been cited for attacking other players.

On the other hand, there have been hockey players, like former Chicago Plack Hawks star Bobby Hull, who have threatened to retire if violence wasn't cleaned up.

Then, the inevitable occurs. Miller and a member of the opposition, who also is a good friend of his, get into a fight. Miller spears the player in the gut and jumps on him when he's down on the ice.

The player dies of a ruptured spleen and Miller is charged with manslaughter — flung into an agonizing and over-publicized trial.

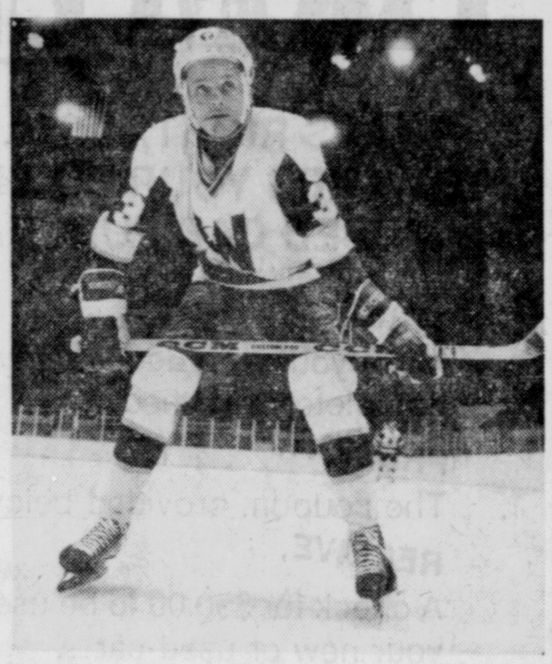

THE DEFENSE contends that hockey is just a violent game, that everyone on the ice has to accept the consequences.

The prosecution argues that hockey players have become nothing more than hired "hatchetmen, paid to beat men and spill their blood on the ice." It has become a vicious game under the direction of team owners scrambling to make a profit, they say.

Through it all, Miller's life and career are left stranded between the two arguments. He realizes he is a puppet and discovers that he is capable of killing.

"It's a story about personal responsibility in not just hockey, but any sport or profession. It's about the pressures of success that can lead you to do things you never thought you were capable of," said Moriarty, who has won a Tony Award for his role in "Find Your Way Home" and an Emmy Award for his role in "The Glass Menagerie."

HIS OTHER athletic roles include the film "Bang the Drum Slowly", which was about the trials and tribulations of a baseball pitcher.

MICHAEL MORIARTY

The scenes that will set viewers thinking are the ones related to the trial which Miller's wife, played by Meryl Streep, painfully endures.

"The Deadliest Season" is a fine television drama. It imparts a lesson of moral conscience that can be beneficial and understood by more than just hockey enthusiasts.

HIGHLIGHTS:

• Dramatic, unprecedented film of a fetus inside its mother's womb will be included in "The Miracle Months," a special about birth and related life-saving advances in medicine at 7 p.m. on Channel 2. Close-up film of a 40-day-old embryo, only the size of a thumbnail, represents important advances in photographic technology.

The special will focus on the medical solutions to the problem pregnancies of three women — one with an abnormally positioned placenta, another whose RH factor is incompatible with her unborn baby's and a third who has a history of miscarriage.

The situations are true and the show is worth watching. It is being sponsored, in part, by the Wheeling Trust Savings and Bank through membership in the American Bankers Assn.

• Michael Landon, will be a guest on ABC's "Good Morning America" show today. As national chairman for the Easter Seals, he will discuss the organization's natiowide telethon March 26-27. "Good Morning America" airs 7 to 9 a.m. on Channel 7.

GM won't sponsor show on Jesus; mum on reason

General Motors officials Tuesday would not discuss their reasons for dropping sponsorship of the two-part NBC television drama "Jesus of Nazareth," scheduled to air on Palm Sunday, April 3 and Easter, April 10.

The corporation issued a statement saying, "The decision reflects our conclusion that commercial sponsorship could be regarded as inappropriate to the subject of the film."

In an attempt to soften the blow of the action, the statement concluded, "We continue to admire its (the film's) purpose and artistic merit."

PHIL WORKMAN, a Detroit GM official in charge of public information, refused to elaborate on the statement.

"General Motors has decided not to exercise its option to sponsor the television special. I can't tell you anything else," he said.

General Motors is one of the country's big-name sponsors that has succumbed to the pressures of professional and special interest groups looking to clear television of violence and distorted views of the world.

Aside from appealing directly to the three major networks, antiviolence forces have been threatening major sponsors with boycotts and embarrassment.

A number of prime time advertisers have fallen in line behind General Motors which has promised to review their buying practices in light of the protests being made by such groups as the American Medical Assn., the National Parent-Teacher Assn. and the National Citizens Committee for Broadcasting.

GENERAL MOTORS officials would not confirm whether the corporation's most recent action was a surrendering to special interest groups criticizing the film.

One such critic is Rev. John Dekker, pastor of the Club Hill Bible Presbyterian Church of Baltimore, who has not seen the film but has launched a national protest against the movie based on comments made by producer Franco Zeffirelli.

Zeffirelli allegedly said the public has never wanted to accept Jesus as a man but only as a God. Dekker, on his radio program "In Defense of Truth," has urged listeners to protest the film to both NBC and General Motors because of what he called "misrepresentation of Jesus."

"We believe that if we're going to have a representation of Christ at Easter, let's have the Christ of Scripture rather than the Christ of Zeffirelli," Dekker said.

The U.S. Catholic Conference recently issued a statement saying, "The rumor being spread by perhaps well intentioned groups that the program 'Jesus of Nazareth' denies the divinity of Christ seems entirely without substance. We have been assured by one of the Catholic advisers on the production that it will occasion no theological problems for viewers."

NBC, IN THE meantime, is trying to line up new sponsors for the six-hour production with an all-star cast that includes Anne Bancroft, Ernest Borgnine, Claudia Cardinale, James Earl Jones, James Mason, Laurence Olivier, Christopher Plummer, Anthony Quinn, Rod Steiger and Peter Ustinov.

NBC sources said Tuesday they see no problem in finding various sponsors for the film and that it will be aired as scheduled. Network sources unofficially attributed the situation to misinformation about the film.

General Motors officials have reportedly not viewed the movie.

CBS to air 'African Queen' pilot

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Maybe it's a sign of maturity, but nowadays Mariette Hartley can hear the sound of crow's wings beating.

Her life and career have been tumultuous. But, today, she seems at last to be relaxed, confident, happy. She and her husband, Patrick Boyriven, have a 15-month-old son, Sean, and that may have something to do with it all.

"I realize now," Mariette says, "that the family unit is the most important thing in life, maybe the only important thing in life. It gives you some place to plant your feet firmly, a foundation for everything else."

AND THERE ARE other things in her life which she can now see in perspective. There's her career, which is booming. She's much in demand for TV guest shots — why not? After all, she's one of the most beautiful ladies around and a superior actress, as well.

She's done a pilot for a CBS series, a new version of "The African Queen," with Warren Oates, which will air Friday at 7 p.m. on Channel 2.

All in all, her life has changed dramatically. She looks better than ever, says she feels better than ever and, primarily, she's enthusiastic about living.

Symbolic of that enthusiasm is that business of the sound of crow's wings.

"Pat introduced me to the desert," she says. "I had never known it and I found I liked it. One day, Pat and Sean were off somewhere and I was alone. I lay down and suddenly I heard this strange sound — thup, thup, thup — and I couldn't figure out what it was.

"I LOOKED UP and it was a crow flying over my head. I had never before taken the time to listen to the sound of a crow flying. It was very exciting."

Urlacher to appear in court today

Thomas Urlacher, a key figure in a police investigation into the disappearance of Mount Prospect teenager Barbara Glueckert, is appearing today in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Associate Circuit Judge Marvin Peters is expected to rule on a motion by Urlacher's attorney, John Madden, to dismiss the charge against Urlacher. If granted, the motion will set the suspect free.

Urlacher is the last person known to have seen Miss Glueckert at a rock concert in Huntley, Ill. Aug. 21.

Thomas Urlacher

URLACHER, was arrested in and extradicted from San Francisco in December. Since then he has appeared at several grand jury hearings convened in Kane County to determine Miss Glueckert's whereabouts.

Since his last court appearance Urlacher has attempted to obtain a job at seven locations, but no one will hire him because of his notoriety, he said.

"They say they'd like to hire me, but they don't want to be hasselled by police. They just don't want to put up with it," he said.

For the time being, Urlacher works occasionally in his father's furniture store in Elgin.

"BUT I DON'T really get over there much anymore," Urlacher said. "Besides, when I'm in there, people come in and walk around and look at you strange. When they're finished looking, then they leave."

Urlacher has been staying in the ranch-style home of his parents, Clarence and Joan Pugh, in a subdivision next to the Fox River. He has been alone there since last week when his mother took an unannounced vacation.

Urlacher has not stated whether he will ask for a jury or bench trial on the charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Investigators from the Illinois Bureau of Investigation, Kane County, Cook County and the missing girl's father, Robert Glueckert, have been searching for possible sites where Miss Glueckert could be buried.

INVESTIGATORS have voiced fear that the girl has been killed and could be somewhere in the Huntley-Elgin area.

Robert Glueckert said Monday he and close friends have covered most of Kane County in an attempt to find a possible burial site, but so far have found nothing.

"We'll keep trying, though. We'll have to see where else we can look," Glueckert said. He added he is no longer using metal detector devices to locate pieces of metal below the earth's surface.

White House germ intake tested

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A test was made on air intakes at the White House in 1962 to determine if it were vulnerable to germ or chemical warfare attacks, the Army said Tuesday.

Army spokesmen also confirmed there were tests in which living organisms were introduced into a drinking water system at the Food and Drug Administration building in Washington in 1969 to determine its vulnerability to attack.

Spokesmen said the test on the executive mansion was done at the request of President John F. Kennedy's White House staff and involved "the air intake system of a portion of the White House."

THEY SAID they had no further details on what sort of substance was used or what results were obtained.

The spokesmen replied to inquiries which arose from release of a review of germ warfare testing by the Army, and ensuing reports that covert tests on various Washington buildings, including the White House and Capitol, showed the President and members of Congress could be assassinated by such attacks.

The FDA experiments included one covert test in which personnel from the Army's biological warfare headquarters from Ft. Detrick, Md., managed to insert a bacterial virus into the drinking water system without being caught.

These tests were outlined in a summary made available to the Senate Intelligence Committee in 1975.

THE SUMMARY said that while the test organisms were killed by the system's purification system, it would be relatively easy for a saboteur to determine how much of a harmful organism would be needed to contaminate the system.

The summary given the Senate committee, however, noted only that the tests were the result of a "cooperaive project."

Bet services deprive state of taxes: report

The Illinois Legislative Investigating Commission Tuesday added its name to the growing list of opponents to messenger betting services in the state.

In a report to the Illinois General Assembly, the commission contends the services, which have been operating since 1975, in the last half of 1976 deprived the state of more than $1 million in taxes from race track attendance.

Ronald Ewert, the commission's acting director, said the eight-week study identified 370 services, primarily located in Cook County. The services contend they accept bets in city and suburban offices and use messengers to place the bets at tracks.

While the report suggests some of the services are linked to organized crime or are fronts for bookies, Ewert said the commission offered no specific allegations.

THE SERVICES proliferated with only minor police intervention and no legislative action until patrons began to voice complaints about unpaid winnings and other irregularities.

The report suggested the state consider establishing off-track betting services. The Illinois House Executive Committee is scheduled to review HR 92, which would direct the Illinois House Revenue Committee to establish a subcommittee to study the off-track betting proposal and report back April 15 to the legislature.

The commission members said the unlicensed and unregulated messenger services have become a multi-million business. The report also labels as "nonsense" the contention by some services that the operations "are no gambling houses."

The report also echoes the conclusion cited by several legislators that the messenger services would be impossible to regulate if the state did approve a licensing procedure.

Local opera ors of messenger betting services and Eli Soto, the president of the Illinois Messenger Betting Services, a loose-knit coalition of services that favors state regulation, could not be reached for comment on he commission's findings.

The 394-1700 QUIZ

MARCH 15TH QUESTION:
What pro golfer was often referred to as "The Silver Scot"?
ANSWER: T

Stone makes a strong bid

SARASOTA, Fla. — Steve Stone struck out five batters in four innings Tuesday to start the White Sox toward a 3-0 shutout over Kansas City in the first game of an exhibition doubleheader.

The Royals clobbered southpaw Ken Brett in the second inning of the nightcap and cruised to a 10-3 victory.

"I want the chance to prove I can pitch," Stone said. "If I can't pitch, I'll quit. But I believe I can pitch and I hope to be a starter, too."

LAST YEAR STONE, who is in his second tour with the Sox, decided to lay out his option with the Cubs. The Sox claimed him in the re-entry draft and signed him to a one-year contract.

Stone was better than a .500 pitcher during his three seasons with the Cubs, despite arm trouble. He won 23 and lost 20 after a 6-8 record and 2.98 earned run average in one season with the White Sox.

He has been the most effective pitcher for the Sox on the spring training schedule.

Ralph Garr and Larry Foster homered behind Stone in the opener.

JOHN WATHAN belted a homer off Brett in the third inning of the second game and Luis Silverio connected off Tim Stoddard as winner Doug Bird was staked to a big early lead.

Royal Stillman's homer was the only run off Bird in four innings.

Chet Lemon of the White Sox had to be taken from the field after he collided with a chain-link fence chasing a fly ball.

The White Sox play the St. Louis Cardinals today in St. Petersburg and then entertain the Cards again Thursday in Sarasota.

Chicago faces Kansas City again Friday before battling Detroit in a weekend series.

Bulls dump Boston, fail to gain ground

by KEITH REINHARD

Zap, bang, boom.

That's the way it would have looked on a Batman and Robin sequence. But on the floor of the Stadium Tuesday night it looked like a 107-96 Bulls win over the Boston Celtics as a throng of 17,397 roared their constant approval.

But the Bulls ninth win in their last 10 tries failed to cut any ice in their race for a playoff berth as the Kansas City Kings stormed back from a 14-point deficit to defeat the Washington Bullets, 101-99.

The Bulls still trail the Kings by 3½ games for the final playoff spot and are now 33-35 while the Kings are 36-31.

IT DIDN'T take the Bulls long to tune in on the Kansas City game which was in its waning minutes as Chicago entered the lockerroom. Bulls coach Ed Badger said Kansas City's win didn't upset him — much.

"I'm not really frustrated by Kansas City winning," said the Bulls mentor in response to a question. "They've been winning at home."

When reminded that the last two K.C. wins have come on the road, Badger snorted, "Yes, against the Little Sisters of the Poor."

The Bulls dominated for three quarters before a charged-up house that loved every minute. At one point in the third period, Artis Gilmore passed to Norm Van Lier coming down the court and Van Lier, in one fluid motion, flipped to Mickey Johnson in the corner. Johnson promptly canned a 20-footer to cap the slam-bang masterpiece that drew a standing ovation which stopped play.

"We got a little tired toward the end, said Badger. "But you have to give Boston credit. They're not a team that gives up easily."

LEADING VIRTUALLY from the start, the Bulls opened the fourth quarter with an 85-68 bulge that Boston cut to 87-80 with 6:41 left in the game.

Then Wilbur Holland hit a pair of free throws, Van Lier dropped in another and Scott May sank a 15-footer to give the Bulls a more comfortable 93-82 cushion.

Gilmore finished the game with 28 points going up against Dave Cowens of the Celtics and Artis again drew Badger's praise.

"ARTIS PLAYED an outstanding game," Badger said. "Cowens is a very physical player, but Artis took it to him right off the bat. That was one of the main reasons we were able to dominate the game tonight."

Cowens, nevertheless, was still eight for 18 from the field and finished as high point man for Boston with 22 points, followed by Jim Ard with 20.

Three other Bulls finished with 20-point plus performances. Holland netted 23 points, Johnson had 22 and May tallied 21.

Trailing 6-4 in the early going, the Bulls went on a binge to outscore the Celtics 12-2 over the next three minutes and owned a 32-21 edge by the end of the first period. With Gilmore dominating underneath, Chicago blew out to a 61-48 halftime lead and led by as many as 23 in the second half.

In other NBA games Julius Erving, George McGinnis, Doug Collins and Lloyd Free combined for 93 points as the Philadelphia 76ers routed the Cleveland Cavaliers 133-102. San Antonio whipped New York, 118-108.

Cubs snap loss streak

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. — Jerry Morales singled in the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning Tuesday and the Cubs snapped a four-game losing streak with a 4-3 exhibition victory over the California Angels.

Trailing 3-0, the Cubs rallied with a single run in the fifth, then three in the seventh off losing pitcher Mike Cuellar. Bruce Sutter, Chicago's bullpen ace, pitched two innings of one-hit ball to receive the victory.

The Angels reached Cubs starter Rick Reuschel for three runs in the third inning on singles by Jerry Remy and Mario Guerero and a homer by Bobby Bonds.

The Cubs announced after the game that they had sold first baseman Jerry Tabb to the Oakland A's for an undisclosed amount of cash.

In a separate transaction, the Cubs traded outfielder Jim Tyrone to the A's in exchange for utility infielder Gaylen Pitts.

DROP SOMETHING? A free-for-all erupted Tuesday night in National Hockey League game between Toronto and St. Louis. Bruce Bourdreau (left) of Toronto grabs Blues' Bob Gassoff from behind as Gassoff punches Bob Warner to the ice. Linesmen try to pull Blues' Rick Bourbonnais and Bernie Federko (24) from the back of Leafs' Pat Boutette. St. Louis lost 4-1 to remain 10 points on top of the Black Hawks in Smythe Division. Barrington shades Benet, lands Elite Eight status

by ART MUGALIAN

DeKALB — Had the Prince been fitting glass slippers at the DeKalb Supersectional, he would have had his pick of Cinderella teams here Tuesday.

But when Barrington's 6-5½ sophomore Ike Person, a transfer from Rockford, plopped in a layup with :02 left to play in the Northern Illinois fieldhouse, it provided a perfectly fitting finish to a 58-56 Bronco victory.

And it turned Benet Academy into a disappointed pumpkin.

BARRINGTON'S VICTORY, its 27th in 30 games this season, sends the Broncos to Champaign for a Friday quarterfinal matchup. Benet, a Catholic school with an enrollment of 1,150 boys, ended its season at 26-4.

Either team could have lived up to the Cinderella tag.

The North Suburban champion Broncos, up by 12 with 3:00 to play in the first half, watched their lead disappear in the second half as the smaller, but sharpshooting Redwings gained the momentum.

Inspired by a 40-footer at the buzzer by sophomore Kevin Conrad, Benet turned a three-point halftime deficit into a narrow 43-42 lead after three quarters. With 6-5 soph Mike Lang working inside for most of his game-high 21 points and 6-2 guard Mike Maley gunning from outside, the Redwings played nip-and-tuck until Person's last-second bucket won it for Barrington.

"WE COULD HAVE put it away in the first half," said first-year Bronco coach Gary Cook. "But we let up on them. Still, Benet came back because they're a good team, an underrated team.

"We're underrated too, maybe — maybe," Cook added cautiously.

Barrington's 6-5 Brad Sinclair, who had all nine of his points in the first half, fouled out with 2:26 left in the game. After that, the Broncos relied on 6-4 soph John Tomlinson, Barrington's top scorer with 19 including a pair of sensational tip-ins in the final minutes.

With 1:30 left and the game tied at 53, Person rejected a pair of Lang attempts from in close and junior guard Bruce Henricksen saved the ball for Barrington. On the ensuing trip down the court Tomlinson went high over the rim to redirect Person's baseline miss, giving the Broncs a two-point lead.

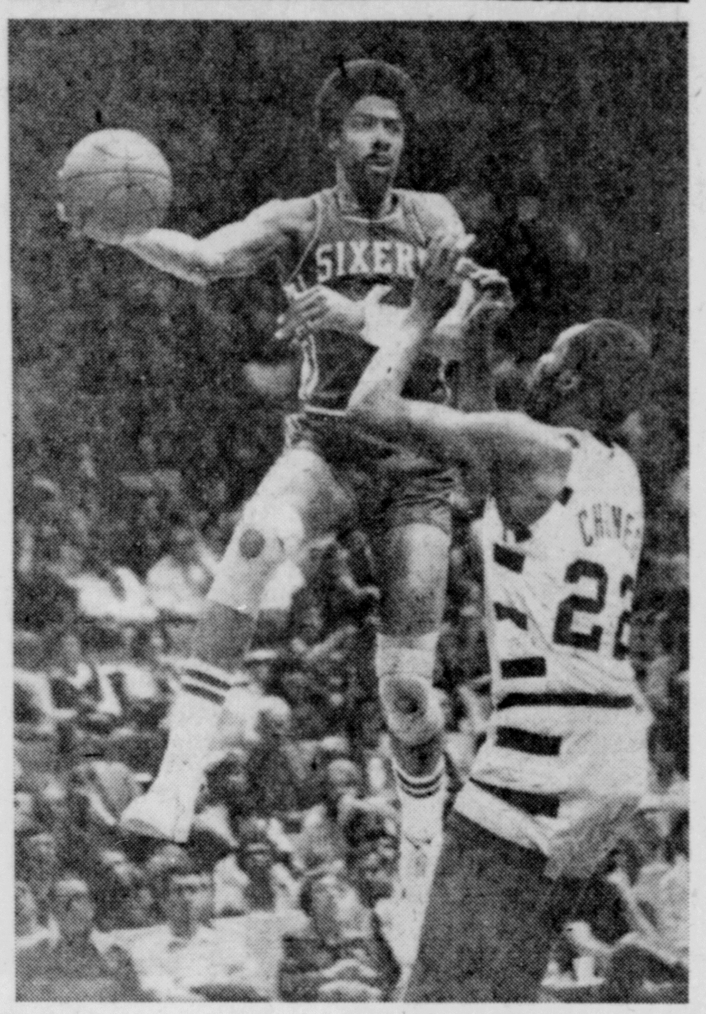

MALEY HIT from 20 feet with :22 left tying the score at 56, and Barrington brought the ball across the timeline, then called timeout.

"We wanted to get off a good shot," said Cook. "But we didn't want to wait quite so long to shoot it."

Barrington inbounded the ball and, with time ticking away, Brian Oliver turned around with the ball and went up to shoot from 15 feet. Instead, he located Person all by himself under the basket for the winning points.

Benet called a timeout with :01 left to set up a 15-footer for Lang. The big soph scrambled for the long inbound pass at the free throw line and put up a shot that went in — but the ball was still in his hand at the buzzer.

Dakota cagers get nod for Cuba trip

WASHHINGTON — A group of South Dakota basketball players will be the first American sports team to compete in Cuba since the two nations broke diplomatic relations 16 years ago, the office of Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., said Tuesday. The baksetball team will play in Cuba the week starting April 3, with the exact dates still being worked out by Abourezk's office and the Cuban delegation to the United Nations.

The American team will be composed of players from the University of South Dakota and South Dakota State, both members of the North Central Conference. The University of South Dakota had an 11-13 record and South Dakota State was 10-16 this year. Cuba will field a team "equal in height and age," a spokesman in Abourezk's office said.

For a time it appeared that a major league baseball team would break the sports barrier. Cuban premier Fidel Castro recently expressed interest in the New York Yankees playing a Cuban team in Havana. The Yankee management liked the idea, and the State Department said it wouldn't mind their playing in Havana this spring.

Blues falter; Smythe lead at 10

St. Louis failed to gain on the idle Black Hawks Tuesday night in National Hockey League play but still holds a commanding 10-point advantage in the Smythe Division.

Errol Thompson, Lanny McDonald, Jim McKenny and George Ferguson scored for Toronto to give the Maple Leafs a 4-1 win over the Blues in St. Louis. The only Blues' score was Jamie Masters' first goal in the NHL.

Brent Meeke, Whitey Widing and Dennis Maruk each had a goal and an assist to lead the Cleveland Barons to a 5-1 victory over the Washington Capitals.

The Atlanta Flames strengthened their hold on third place in the NHL Patrick Division by defeating the Pittsburgh Penguins 7-3. Eric Vail and Tom Lysiak scored two goals each.

The Flames put in five goals in the opening period, three on power plays.

Bonnies, Villanova advance in NIT

NEW YORK — Greg Sanders scored a game-high 30 points, including eight during a 12-0 spurt early in the second half Tuesday night, to spark St. Bonaventure to a 76-73 upset victory over Oregon and into the semifinals of the National Invitation Tournament.

The Bonnies, now 22-6, will play Thursday night against Villanova, which advanced earlier Tuesday when Keith Herron and his brother, Larry, combined for 36 points as the Wildcats continued their streak of never having lost to Massachusetts with a 81-71 victory.

Alabama and Houston, winners Monday night, will meet in Thursday night's other semifinal game.

Sanders, a 6-foot-6 forward, broke open a sloppily played game two minutes into the second half when he scored two of his four three-point plays to help the Bonnies extend a 31-30 lead to 43-30 with 15:30 left.

After Oregon, making its third straight NIT appearance, closed to within 47-40, Sanders then keyed an 8-2 burst with six points to put St. Bonaventure ahead 55-42 with 10:28 remaining.

Baltimore 'buzzer' lands two years

BALTIMORE — Pilot Donald Kroner was sentenced to two years in prison Tuesday for crashing his light plane into Memorial Stadium following the Colts-Steelers playoff game last December. Kroner, 33, was convicted last month of two charges of malicious destruction of property and one charge of reckless flying.

Northern District Court Judge Daniel Friedman could have sentenced Kroner to three years and fined him $2,500 for each of the malicious destruction convictions. The maximum for reckless flying is 90 days and a $500 fine.

Kroner crashed his rented Piper Cherokee into the upper deck just minutes after the Dec. 19 game ended. Kroner and two police officers were injured but no fans were hurt because most had left without waiting for the end of the 40-14 defeat to Pittsburgh. Kroner's defense was that the plane had engine trouble and he was forced to land in the deck area. Federal investigators said the plane was trouble-free.

49ers sale official, shake-up next

SAN FRANCISCO — San Francisco 49er president Lou Spadia Tuesday confirmed the long-rumored sale of the National Football League team to Youngstown, Ohio, builder Edward J. DeBartolo. Spadia said that details of the transaction would be completed prior to the March 28 NFL meeting in Phoenix, at which time the sale will be submitted for required league approval.

Spadia would not confirm reports from other sources that former Miami and Baltimore executive Joe Thomas will become general manager as part of the deal. DeBartolo's son, Edward Jr., was expected to become the new club president with Spadia, 49er president for more than 15 years, retained in the front office.

'Rocky' gets bout with Ali

NEW YORK (UPI) — Muhammad Ali will come out of his short-lived retirement and defend his world heavyweight championship in a multi-million dollar deal against "Rocky" Lorenzo Zanon of Italy in Seoul, Korea, May 10, it was announced Tuesday.

Paul Corvino, who will promote the bout, has a letter of credit for $4,800,000 from the Korea Exchange Bank, most of which will be paid to Ali. He has a verbal agreement on the fight with Herbert Muhammad, Ali's manager, and anticipates the contracts will be finalized next week.

Zanon, 23, has won 28 of his 30 pro bouts, including 22 by knockout, and will be trained by former middleweight champion Rocky Graziano, who "lent" him his nickname.

"THIS HERE kid, I saw him train, and he fights something like I do," Graziano said today. "He never takes a backstep. He walks in and throws bombs, bomb, bombs, He's big, strong and has plenty of guts. He looks good to me."

Graziano said he'll also work as Zanon's interpreter — "I speak American Italian, he understands me a little" — and will be in his corner for the fight.

"Muhammad Ali is one of the greatest fighters I've seen in the last 25 years, and he's been a great guy for boxing," Graziano said. "This kid will give him a good fight.

"A guy that throws punches and keeps walking in has a chance. Maybe he'll be 8-1. But you gotta remember he's Italian, and Italians really know how to fight."

ZANON, CERTAIN to be known as the "Italian Stallion" after the leading character in the movie "Rocky," has had five fights this year, all victories. He recently beat Lucien Rodriguez, the conquerer of European champion Jean-Pierre Coopman, a previous Ali victim.

In addition, the native of Milan defeated Alfredo Evangelista of Uruguay, rated No. 10 in the World Boxing Association listings, so Zanon should move into the top 10 in the next rankings.

While Zanon has been active, the 34-year-old Ali hasn't fought since winning a controversial decision from Ken Norton Sept. 28, and three days later, in Turkey, he announced his retirement.

CORVINO, PRESIDENT of Pro Athletes, a personal management company which has handled such athletes as Graziano, Vida Blue and Bobby Murcer, sid he has been negotiating with Barry Burnstein of Video Techniques for closed circuit theater TV coverage of the fight.

As for his unusual choice of sites, Corvino explained, "South Korea is one of our strongest and most dependable allies in the Far East and geographically located on the mainland of China. The Republic of South Korea is an ally the United States can count on."

In addition to the Ali-Zanon bout, Corvino plans four other matches, including a 12-round rematch between Pedro Soto and Scott LeDoux. In a previous meeting, LeDoux won a controversial 10-round decision in New York.

Forest View girls edge Elgin 45-43

Forest View made the free throws when they counted in beating Elgin 45-43 in the semifinals of the Conant Regional Girls Basketball Tournament Tuesday night.

The Falcon girls, who entered the final quarter trailing 35-31, hit eight of 11 attempts from the free-throw line to pull ahead of Elgin in the closing minutes. The win sends Forest View (14-2) into the Conant Regional finals Thursday night at 7:30 p.m.

Schmidt and Brinkman shared the high-point totals for Forest View, each netting 13 points. Duncan had 11.

The Falcons took a slim 13-12 edge after the first quarter, but fell behind 25-21 at the half following an eight-point second period. The contest was Forest View's first of the regional, having had a bye in the first round.

CAROL JOHNSON led the Mustangs (4-12) with 11 points, while Leslie Ahr had seven more. Rolling Meadows had defeated Prospect Monday to advance to the semifinal match, while the contest was Conant's first of the regional.

Fremd smashed Dundee 80-52 in the first game of the Hersey Regional Tuesday, and Buffalo Grove followed that by defeating Hersey 43-38. The two winners will meet in the regional championship Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Fremd's 80-point total is its biggest of the season, the largest by any area girls basketball team this year. After Dundee stayed with the powerful Vikings through one quarter, Fremd (16-1) blasted off with a 26-4 scoring edge in the second period.

Four Vikes soared into double figure-scoring. Connie Bruns paced the winners with 19 points, followed by Donelda Danz with 13, Colleen Cannon with 12 and Peggy Hamill with 11. Jan Morency of Dundee led all scorers with 20 points.

GARY PLAYER'S GOLF CLASS: The grip test

New Trier handles Gordon, 69-55

by KEITH REINHARD

New Trier West's one-two punch didn't have its usual impact, so the Cowboys went to their three-four jab.

And Dan Franz and Jim Karr proceeded to direct New Trier to a 69-55 romp past Gordon Tech at the Evanston Supersectional Tuesday, earning a berth in the Elite Eight playoffs in Champaign this weekened.

Franz, a 6-foot-4 forward who was listed as an "uncertain" starter because of a Monday fever, and Karr, a 5-10 guard, combined for 40 points as the Waukegan Sectional champions shook loose from a 50-50 fourth-quarter deadlock to win going away.

IT WAS THE 23rd triumph in 28 contests for the Mel Sheets-coached Cowboys. Since the playoffs have begun, no one has come closer than 10 points to defeating them. The Rams, meanwhile, who claimed their sectional crown at Arlington last week with a 65-59 victory over the host Cardinals, closed out their season at 25-5.

Both sides had taken their turns at dominating the action through the first three quarters of play. New Trier pulled into a 16-10 first-period command and led by as many as nine points during the second stanza.

Just before halftime, James Copeland and E. J. Conner hit mid-range jumpers for the Rams to close the gap to one, but Rick Malnati countered by driving up the key and then feeding back to Karr for an open 18-footer. Steve Blinderman added a free throw to allow the Cowboys a 30-26 midgame edge.

In the third quarter, paced by Conner and John Murphy, Gordon Tech drilled 10 unanswered points and shot into a 38-32 command. The Central Suburban North kingpins trailed after that until the fourth period was two minutes old.

AT THAT POINT, Joel May, who normally teams with Malnati to spearhead the NTW offense, picked up eight of his 12 game points, all in succession.

Two of them came after Franz had neatly blocked Murphy's baseline 10-footer and retrieved the ball. May canned a pair of free throws and Karr followed with a layup that widened the bulge to 56-50.

The Rams were never able to counter and New Trier, which had toppled Buffalo Grove by 10 last week to win their first sectional ever, sped to a 14-point verdict and a 7 p.m. date Friday at the University of Illinois' Assembly Hall.

Franz and Karr each finished with 20 points. Franz also collected 14 rebounds to easily dominate the boards at both ends of the court. May finished with 12 points and Malnati had 10 to go with nine assists, although the usually polished guard was nailed for eight turnovers.

Conner, Murphy and Copeland each had 14 points to head the Ram cause. Tim McAvoy chipped in with 11 more.

Rangers feel they have good shot

by FRED McMANE
UPI Sports Writer

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — There's an old saying that there are only two sports in the state of Texas — football and spring football.

Ah, but this is the year baseball may gain some respect.

It appears the citizens of Texas finally have a contending club in baseball to cheer about. After a winter of some serious "horse trading," the Texas Rangers have come up with a team that should be in serious contention for the American League West.

"THIS IS BY FAR the best Texas Ranger Club we've ever had, offensively and defensively," says Toby Harrah, who has been with the team since its birth. "It's the best balanced club we've ever had. Our pitching strength is definitely the best it's ever been.

"You're always optimistic when you come to spring training, but I really believe if we play the type of ball we're capable of, we've got a good chance at winning it."

The Ranger front office worked very hard at putting this club together. They began last season by getting pitcher Bert Blyleven from Minnesota and this past winter they traded for and bought the likes of shortstop Bert Campaneris, outfielder Ken Henderson and pitchers Doyle Alexander, Carl Morton, Paul Lindblad and Roger Moret.

If pitching is 95 per cent of baseball, the Rangers are in great shape. There are 20 pitchers listed on the spring roster, seven of whom at one time or another won 10 or more games in a season in the majors. In fact, the Rangers may have too much pitching.

"I was concerned about that at first," says Manager Frank Lucchesi. "But I am working at trying to get some extra games scheduled so that all the pitchers will get enough time. I will try to find the best 10."

STRENGTHS — Superb pitching depth with Blyleven, Alexander, Gaylord Perry and Jim Umbarger forming a formidable front four; All-Star infielders in Campaneris and Harrah, who will be switched from short to third base; solid bench.

WEAKNESSES — Not much power with Jeff Burroughs gone to Atlanta; mediocre defense.

NEW FACES — Campaneris will solidify infield, Alexander, Lindblad, Moret and Morton add depth to pitching staff; rookie Bump Wills, a .324 hitter in PCL last season, figures to be regular second baseman; Henderson provides outfield defense and should hit for much higher average than Burroughs. Sandy Alomar from the Yankees adds infield depth.

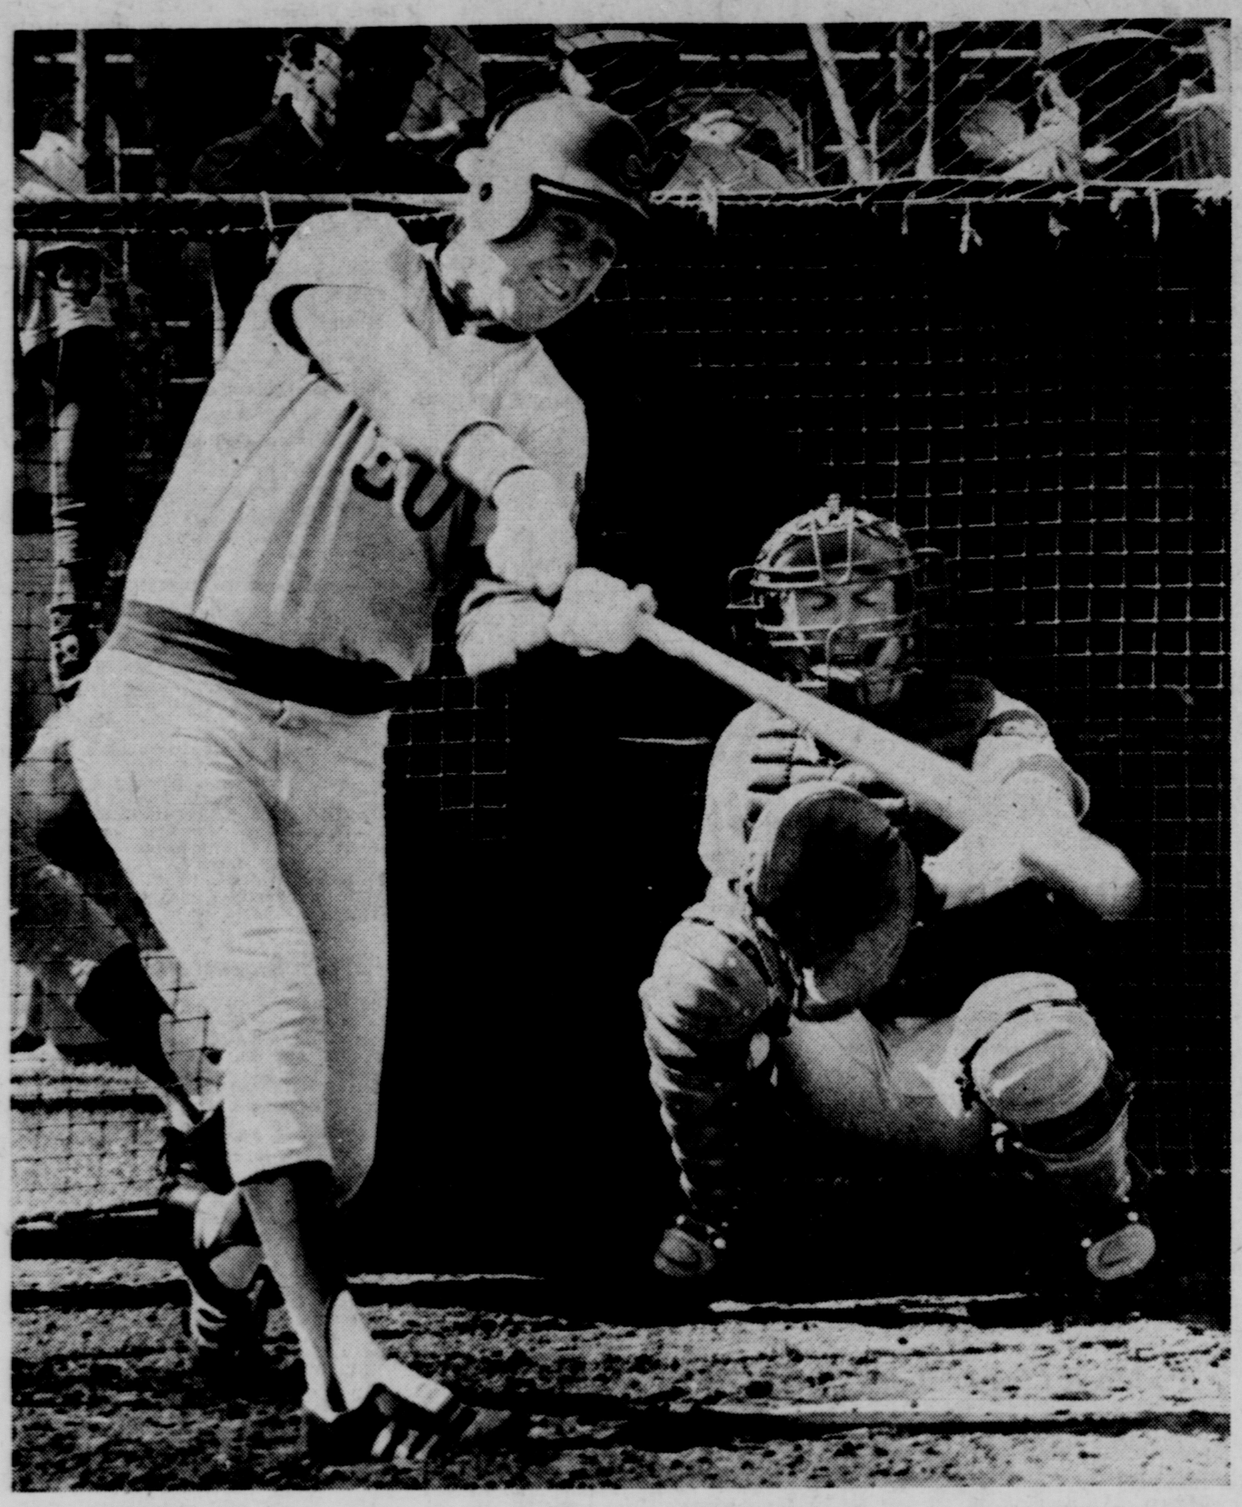

OUTLOOK — A definite contender. "We'll take a back seat to no one in our division," predicts Lucchesi.

BOBBY MURCER of the Cubs takes a batting practice swing in Scottsdale, Ariz. with Randy Hundley handling the catching chores. Murcer is a happy man today in his new role with the Cubs.

Murcer likes everyone, even two sportswriters

by JOE SARGIS

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — Bobby Murcer wants all his friends in San Francisco to know he isn't mad at a single one of them, not even the two sportswriters who chewed him up and probably paved the way for his trade to the Cubs.

"Two of the most enjoyable years I've had in baseball were the ones in San Francisco," Murcer said, sitting in the comfort of the Cubs' dugout while a broiling desert sun sent shimmering heat waves dancing across the infield. "Everyone treated me warmly and I'm really sorry I didn't help the Giants do better than they did. It wasn't for a lack of trying, no matter what some writers said about me. It's just the way things turned out. We never seemed to put things together."

When the Giants plummeted into the National League West cellar last year, shortly after the start of the season, and then stayed there until September, Murcer was pictured as the villain in the San Francisco news papers. One columnist flat out accused Bobby of not putting out, even while he was hitting 23 homers and driving in 90 runs. Another columnist wrote the Giants were losing because Murcer refused to help younger players.

"I DON'T know what more I could have done to help," says Murcer now in looking back. "When I batted .298 the year before and hit only 11 homers, I was criticized for not hitting more homers. Last year I hit 23 homers but batted .259 and I was accused of not hitting for a higher average. Either way, I was criticized.

"But I'm not mad at anyone. It was a fine experience to play for the Giants and I have a warm spot in my heart for Bob Lurie and Bud Herseth. Those two put their money and their reputations, not to mention their time, on the line to save baseball for San Francisco and then no one came out to see the team. I hope more people come out this year because Bob Lurie and Bud Herseth deserve the support."

Murcer was traded to the Cubs earlier this year, and there are two sides to that story, too.

BOBBY SAYS he had only one conversation with Lurie over a new contract and it is his belief the Giants traded him to Chicago because it was a chance to pick up a third baseman — Bill Madlock — and they had made up their minds to use young Jack Clark in his spot in right field.

When Murcer was asked would he have played another position — say first base — while making room for Clark had the Giants not traded him, his reply was "why not. If I had signed, I would have played wherever they asked me to. The same is true with the Cubs. I'll play any position the club asks me to. They met my contract terms so they deserve my best, and that includes playing a new position. I felt the same way while I was with the Giants."

Lurie, who handled contract negotiations with Murcer, says they had only one conversation on the matter.

"BOBBY TOLD me how much he wanted (seven figures) over a five year period," says Lurie. "I told him he was way out of line with what we could afford but promised to get back to him with a counter-offer, which I did in a couple of days.

"At that time the Cubs let us know Madlock was available if we wanted him. Bobby's agent had promised us a reply within three days, but when he still hadn't called after 10 days, we went ahead and made the deal with the Cubs. I was willing to give Bobby a five-year contract but I simply couldn't afford what he was asking. I think he knew that when he asked, but I guess like everyone else these days he wanted as much as he could get."

Murcer says he is a Bob Lurie fan now and always will be. the other day, when the Cubs went over to Phoenix to meet the Giants in an exhibition game, Murcer spotted Lurie and hustled over to shake his hand. The two talked for about 10 minutes and at one point in the conversation Bobby put his arm around the Giants owner's shoulders.

"BOB LURIE is a class guy and I'm his No. 1 fan," Murcer said. "He treated me great all through last season when those guys were getting on me pretty good. But I'm happy to be in Chicago. I think the trade will help both teams because from what I hear Madlock wasn't happy here and he's delighted in San Francisco.

"As for Clark, he has all the tools to be an outstanding player, and I hope he makes it. See, I'm not mad at anyone, not even those two writers in San Francisco."

Ex-Globetrotter killed by wife during quarrel

Leon Hillard, one-time Harlem Globetrotter dribbling whiz who replaced Abe Saperstein as coach, was shot to death Monday night by his wife in a Chicago South Side apartment, police said.

Hillard, 45, was dead on arrival at South Shore Hospital from a bullet which passed through his head. Hillard's wife, Sandra, was questioned by police and released pending an autopsy.

Homicide Sgt. William Boreczky said Hillard and his wife had seen an attorney Monday to discuss a separation or a divorce. He said Mrs. Hillard decided to stay with her mother, who lived in an apartment below the Hillards' home.

Boreczky said Hillard called during the night and she refused to see him.

"The next thing, he kicks in the door and she shoots him," the sergeant said. The time was 9:18 p.m.

Boreczky said Hillard was shot with a .38 caliber pistol. "It was a through and through wound," he said, making it impossible to tell if he were shot in the front or the back of the head.

He said the assistant state's attorney had deferred any charges pending a report from a pathologist.

Boreczky said Mrs. Hillard said she was facing Hillard and she felt her life was endangered. If he were shot in the back of the head, the sergeant said, then it might be a different situation.

Meet a hockey legend

Revenge motivated Mikita

Jim Murray

Great discoveries are frequently by pure chance. Accident is the mother of invention. Archimedes lowers himself into a bathtub and shouts "Eureka!" because that simple act has shown him a way to weigh gold. Leland Stanford Jr. wants to find a way to prove a trotting horse has all four feet off the ground at the same time, orders a sequence of still pictures — and motion pictures and television are born.

So, you have to put Stan Mikita up there with Robert Fulton, Thomas Alva Edison, Archimedes and, maybe, Galileo and Alexander Graham Bell and Samuel F.B. Morse.

Stan didn't say "What hath God wrought?" that day when he broke his hockey stick in practice with the Chicago Black Hawks, but he did have a private chat with the Almighty for letting such a thing happen — and he continued to play with the broken blade which had formed a kind of complicated "V" in the hitting surface.

NOW, STAN'S discovery is not to be compared with laughing gas or the lure for yellow fever or pasteurized milk — but it did make the slapshot a lot easier.

What happened was that Stan noticed something peculiar from his bent stick blade right away: The hockey puck flew off it at a much greater muzzle velocity. It was easier to control, it didn't fly off as unpredictably as it did from the straight, right-angled blade.

That night, he soaked a stick in hot water, slid the blade under a door, propped the handle on a chair, and forged the cresent-moon hockey stick which virtually every winger and center and defenseman in the league uses now. When he showed it to teammate Bobby Hull, history, as they say, was made. Bobby Hull didn't invent the slapshot. And Babe Ruth didn't invent the home run. But they sure perfected their specialty. With the curved blade, Hull was a threat to score from the dressingroom. The goalie's only chance to stop his slapshot in time was to HEAR it.

MIKITA'S INVENTION, unfortunately, was unpatentable. But Stan probably won't need the money. Nor the notoriety. Stan is already a legend in the NHL. He is one of only eight players in league history to score more than 500 goals lifetime. Only two players have scored more assists in a single season — Gordie Howe and Alex Delvecchio. Only two players, Howe and John Bucyk have more points, i.e., goals plus assists.

Stan Mikita has played 19 years for the Black Hawks to amass his 500-plus goals and 1300-plus assists.

A lot of Canadian kids are born to play hockey. But Stan Mikita was probably brought up as far from the Montreal Forum as you could get. Sokolce, Czechoslovakia, is hardly a hotbed of junior hockey. When Stan Mikita was growing up there, even Vienna, only 60 miles away, was considered a moonshot. If anyone in the Carpathian Village he was brought up in had heard of the Chicago Black Hawks, they would have guessed them for something John Wayne chased across a screen on Saturday matinees. Mikita's earlier recollections of home are of lice-ridden German soldiers billeted in the family's little two-room house, forcing the kids to sleep in the cellar among the potatoes.

AFTER THE WAR, a visiting aunt and uncle from Canada offered to take young Stanislav, then aged eight, back to North America with them. Since the alternative was life in a textile mill spinning yarn under pictures of Lenin, Stalin and assorted other despots, his mother tearfully consented.

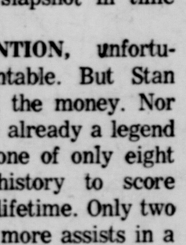

Stan Mikita became a great hockey player from the purest of motives — revenge. The kids in St. Catharines, Ontario, unmercifully taunted the young Czech and his deplorable English until someone put a stick in his hand and skates on his feet and pointed at his tormentors. Around St. Catharine's, they say the first words Mikita learned were "body check." He became less a hockey player than an avenger on ice. Word soon filtered through the NHL about the "Uncheckable Czech" who was terrorizing the amateur leagues. Once the Black Hawks saw him stickhandle the puck through its starting line, they didn't care if he was born in a tree and couldn't talk at all.

Stan Mikita is entitled to go to hockey's Hall of Fame for his exploits on ice. But they should also bring along that pail of hot water, door jamb, chair and broken stick. Not only should the Black Hawks be glad he got out of Sokolce, so should every right-winger who ever slammed an ear-high slapshot past a cringing goalie from center ice with the scimitar-shaped stick which should say "Mikita curve" on it. And Stan shouldn't only make hockey's Who's Who. He should make the one with Edison, Morse, Bell and the Wright Bros. in it along with all his other fellow New World inventors. And his stick should also go to the Smithsonian.

Camp Duncan swimmers show Satellite class

The Camp Duncan YMCA swim team, eyeing a possible state championship this year, started toward that goal recently by winning both the boys and girls Satellite championships.

A host of team and meet records were set by the Camp Duncan Dolphins in the 18-team regional competition. The boys squad won every age group plaque en route to their win and the girls just missed an age group sweep by one.

The Northwest Suburban "Y" of Des Plaines finished second in both boys and girls divisions. Buehler "Y" of Palatine took third in the girls competition, sixth in the boys division.

Individual qualifiers now move on to the state YMCA meet, scheduled Saturday and Sunday at Downers Grove South High School.

Setting new Satellite records for the Camp Duncan boys were: Juniors, 100-Fly—Mark Funk (56.845); Intermediates, 200-Free—John Eliot (1:52.947); 50-Free—Lou Schmalzer (22.256); 100-Free—Lou Schmalzer (49.346); 100-Breast—Kurt Neilsen (1:04.173); 400-Free relay—(Eliot, Ledwith, Neilsen, Schmalzer) 3:28.067.

For the girls of Camp Duncan, new Satellite records were set by: Midgets, 100-Free—Lori Conlin (1:04.32); 50-Breast—Terri Pantaleo (39.20); Preps, 50-Back—Linnea Magnus (29.55); 50-Breast—Linnea Magnus (34.81); 200-Free relay (North, Ratcliffe, Walkowaik, Belt) 1:58.62; 100-Fly—Ratcliffe (1:01.65); 100-Back—Barbara North (1:04.66); Intermediates, 200-Free,—Sue Cripe (2:00.64); 100-Free—Sue Cripe (55.41).

Give blood, brothers.
It's so easy to give ... yet so precious. Help someone else with the gift of life. Today.

Camp Duncan swimmers show Satellite class

The Camp Duncan YMCA swim team, eyeing a possible state championship this year, started toward that goal recently by winning both the boys and girls Satellite championships.

A host of team and meet records were set by the Camp Duncan Dolphins in the 18-team regional competition. The boys squad won every age group plaque en route to their win and the girls just missed an age group sweep by one.

The Northwest Suburban "Y" of Des Plaines finished second in both boys and girls divisions. Buehler "Y" of Palatine took third in the girls competition, sixth in the boys division.

Individual qualifiers now move on to the state YMCA meet, scheduled Saturday and Sunday at Downers Grove South High School.

Setting new Satellite records for the Camp Duncan boys were: Juniors, 100-Fly—Mark Funk (56.845); Intermediates, 200-Free—John Eliot (1:52.947); 50-Free—Lou Schmalzer (22.256); 100-Free—Lou Schmalzer (49.346); 100-Breast—Kurt Neilsen (1:04.173); 400-Free relay—(Eliot, Ledwith, Neilsen, Schmalzer) 3:28.067.

For the girls of Camp Duncan, new Satellite records were set by: Midgets, 100-Free—Lori Conlin (1:04.32); 50-Breast—Terri Pantaleo (39.20); Preps, 50-Back—Linnea Magnus (29.55); 50-Breast—Linnea Magnus (34.81); 200-Free relay (North, Ratcliffe, Walkowaik, Belt) 1:58.62; 100-Fly—Ratcliffe (1:01.65); 100-Back—Barbara North (1:04.66); Intermediates, 200-Free,—Sue Cripe (2:00.64); 100-Free—Sue Cripe (55.41).

Give blood, brothers.
It's so easy to give ... yet so precious. Help someone else with the gift of life. Today.

Scores low, but Ten Pin rates high

Ten Pin Bow, taking advantage of the atmosphere of its home lanes, edged league-leading Striking Lanes, 5-2, as the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League showcased its top two squads in head-to-head competition.

In other matches, L-Tran Engineering topped Mason Shoes, 5-2, Petterson Safety Service crowned Thunderbird Country Club, 5-2 and Ziebart of Des Plaines clipped Tower Cleaners, 5-2.

Although scoring was generally low around the league, Ten Pin and Striking combined for three tense games, none of them decided until the final frame.

TEN PIN bolted out of the gate with a 24-pin triumph highlighted by Marge Lindenberg's 204 game. Striking bounced back by 27 pins in the middle contest as Bette Brelle shot 197, Judy Brumond 195 and Lu Schoenberger 191.

But Ten Pin rebounded for a triumph in the finale in addition to a point for total pins with a slim five-pin victory on the strength of Ethel Juenger's 182 and Lindenberg's 180.

Ten Pin's top kegler was Lindenberg with a 581 series. Juenger hit 517 and Gloria Lucchesi 508. Striking countered with Schoenberger's 561, Brelle's 556 and Judy Brumond's 513.

L-Tran's triumph was spearheaded by Vi Douglas' 561 while Isobel Kosi hit 527, Marlis Pleickhardt 513 and Lorrie Nichols 511. Mason rode the 505 by Sandi Cirullo.

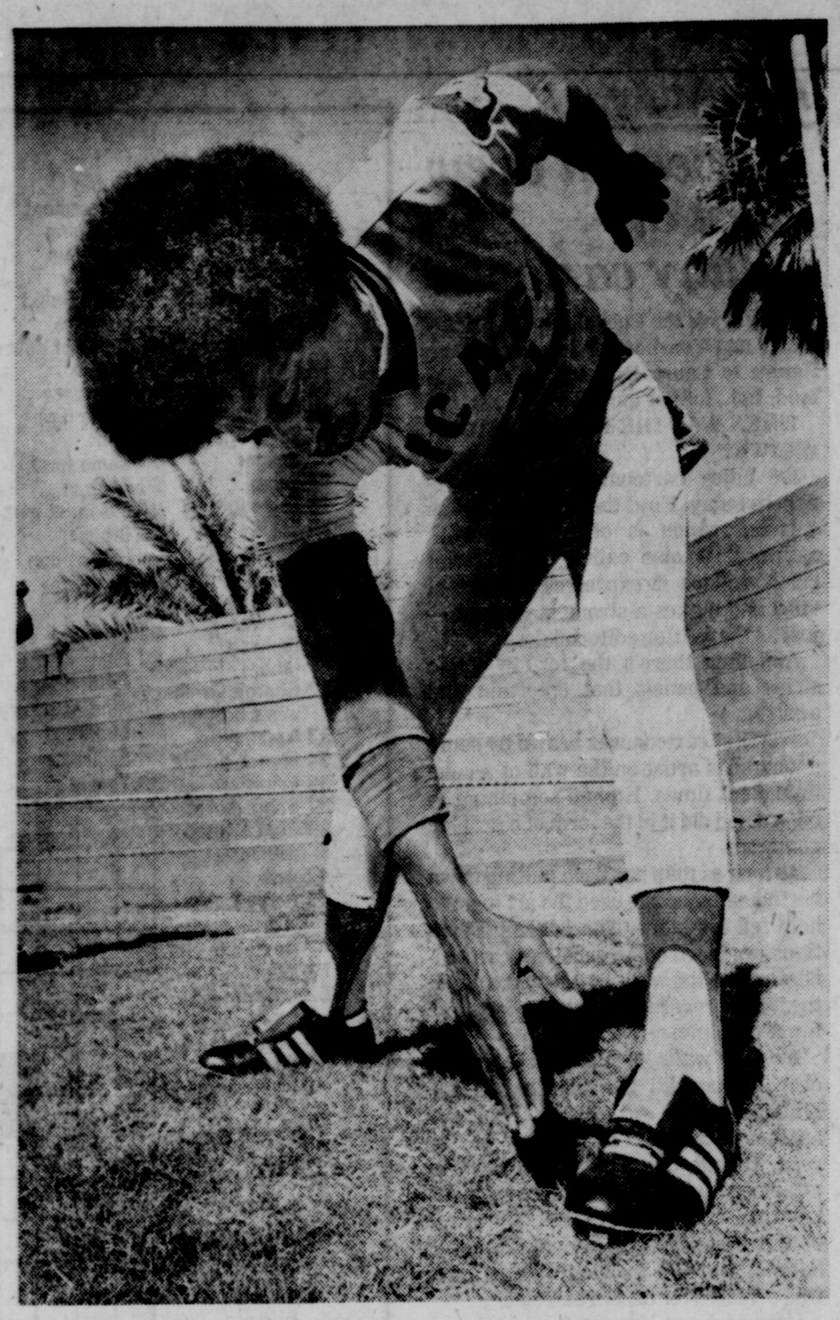

PETTERSON, THE league's first-half champion, rallied around Nancy Porcelius high series of the evening — a 591 — derived from games of 202 and 200. Right behind was Carol Sander with 574-225.

Thunderbird responded behind Dee Kachelmuss' 565-200, Mary Yurs' 538-201 and Jean Ladd's 508.

In the evening's final match, Ziebart achieved success behind the consistent scoring of Peggy Harris who drilled 570. Tower Cleaners bowlers failed to crack the 500 barrier.

Weber Kettles lets subs do the bowling—and wins

by DON CHRISTENSEN

While the regular team was at Reno, Nev. for the ABC Tournament, a substitute team led by Hank Thullen paced Weber's Bar-B-Que Kettles to a league high at Sim's Bowl in Des Plaines.

Weber Kettles showed the regular team how it's done winning all three games against Uncle Andy's Cow Palace with games of 950, 1022 and 971 for 2943. Their total was good for 18½ points

Uncle Andy's came up with games of 911, 961 and 886 for 2758. Two former regulars of the Paddock Classic, Hank Thullen and Al Jordan, reeled off series of 636 and 627, respectively for Weber's, while Mike Coleantonio shot 624 for Uncle Andy's.

LEAGUE-LEADING Formco Metal Products didn't lose much ground as they picked up 16 points and two of three games from the first-half champs, Beverly Lanes.

Although the point spread doesn't indicate it, this was a closely contested match with Formco coming out on top in the first game 949 to 893. The second game went to Beverly Lanes 923 to 908, then Formco won the last game by a narrow 947 and 939 margin.

Oost Produce again proved reason why it will be tough competitors in the second half as they picked up three games and 18 points from Dick McFeely Pontiac. Glen Chesser almost single-handedly beat Dick McFeely the first game with a big 246 to enable Oost to win the first game, 928 to 835.

In the second game Jack Oost picked up the slack with 231 to pace a 26-pin victory, 918 to 892. In the finale, Glen Chesser again ignited Oost to a 1016 to 916 triumph with 234. Glen's 647 was high for the night, ably assisted by Oost's 623.

Des Plaines Ace Hardware also had a team comprised mostly of substitutes because of an A.B.C. commitment but did not fare as fortunate as Weber's when Mr. Norm's Grand Spaulding Dodge whipped Ace two out of three games and took 17 points.

In the first game Grand Spaulding easily outdistanced Ace Hardware, 1001 to 819. Grand Spaulding slipped the second game and the Hardware men prevailed 915 to 878. Grand Spaulding bounced back the last game with a balanced attack and triumphed 966 to 925. Rey Ischer rolled a neat 625 for Grand Spaulding while sub Ken Smith was high for Ace Hardware with 607.

On Saturday the Paddock Classic moves on to Buffalo Grove Striker Lanes with the following schedule — Dick McFeely Pontiac vs Beverly Lanes, Oost Produce vs Uncle Andy's Cow Palace, Formco Metal Products vs Des Plaines Ace Hardware, and Weber Kettles vs Grand Spaulding Dodge.

STANDINGS:

Formco Metal Products 160, Weber's Kettles 147.5, Oost Produce 135.5, Beverly Lanes 131, Uncle Andy's Cow Palace 110, Des Plaines Ace Hardware 108, Grand Spaulding Dodge 107, Dick McFeely Pontiac 106.

Girls sparkle in nationals

Christa Canary and Donna Silber representing the American Academy of Gymnastics, Inc. of Des Plaines traveled to Stillwater, Okla., to compete in the National Elite Qualification Meet.

Christa qualified by finishing 6th in all-around averaging 9.1 for eight events in international compulsories and optionals. This is the highest elite finish for any Midwestern girl during the past five years. Christa also qualified for the finals in three events by capturing 1st on vault, seventh on bars, and 10th on beam.

Only the top 15 girls from this meet qualified for the final National Qualification Meet, Championship of U.S.A., to be held in Fullerton, Calif., on April 21st-23rd. The top 10 girls from the meet will be our national team and will be able to compete internationally.

Donna Silber who was doing well during 5 events pulled her back muscle on her vault and could not continue.

Fire destroys infield board

The "Tote-board" at Sportsman's Park Race Track was destroyed by fire Tuesday. It was the third fire at Chicago-area tracks in the last three months.

No cause was given for the fire at the horse race track, just west of Chicago. Track officials said the fire will not interrupt the day's program.

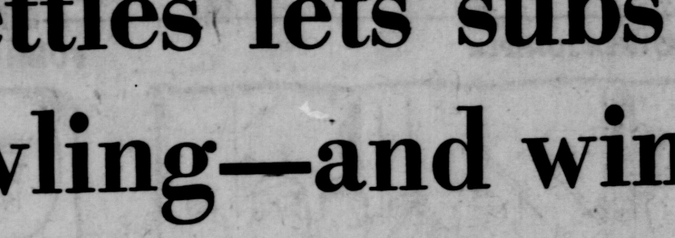

The electronically-controlled totalization board is located inside the racing oval. It posts the amount of money bet on each horse, the odds, starting time and other information.

PREVIOUS FIRES destroyed the grandstand and stopped racing at Washington Park Race Track, Homewood, last month, and the tote board at Balmoral Racing Club, Crete, in December.

Adding to the hot racing action will be Thursday's running of the $25,000 added St. Patrick's Handicap, a six-furlong romp for three-year-olds.

Among the entries are Loco's Reward, Intent Reality, Ruff Mark and Clever Mover. Saturday's card is topped by the $35,000 added inaugural running of the Pink Platinum Handicap.

Lead sinks club contract

South was rather bitter about the whole thing. As he pointed out to his partner and his opponents in particular and anyone within hearing range, he just had to try for a slam with his tremendous hand.

In any event he wondered why his partner had made a business double with a mere four points.

We will answer that one for North. When your partner opens with a forcing two bid, he expects to continue to game unless a penalty double of an opposing bid offers a chance for a greater profit. Hence, when North doubled West's two-heart bid he was merely showing defense against hearts and not any interest at all in playing at game or slam.

With this in mind, South really should have bid three notrump over East's two spades and taken his nine top tricks.

South was unlucky in not making five clubs. His contract failed because West had listened carefully to the bidding and came to the conclusion that East would not have run from two hearts doubled with more than one heart in his hand. Hence, West opened the ace of hearts and continued in spite of receiving the three from his partner. East ruffed and eventually South lost a diamond trick.

Ask Andy

Caveman drew first of many cartoons

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1977 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Laura Bennett, 12, of Highland, Ind., for her question:

WHEN WAS THE FIRST CARTOON DRAWN?

We enjoy cartooning in our newspapers today. First there's the political cartoon, which is often biting with satire. It is also called the editorial cartoon since it expresses a point of view and makes a strong statement — just as the written editorial does.

And then there's the for-fun comic strips and panels that entertain and amuse.

The first cartoon was drawn by some anonymous artist on the wall of a cave in ancient times. He had something to record and did it in the form of a graphic comment.

As long as man has been putting down his thoughts, he has used the art form to help tell his story. The ancient Egyptians produced some excellent cartoonists, and on the walls of the tombs along the Nile is recorded in picture form the life of the time.

Ancient walls of Pompeii revealed drawings as did the churches of the Middle Ages.

As early as the 13th Century in Europe, savage cartoons were drawn to attack corruption. Wood engraving was known as early as the 1470s, but the first of the broadsheet commentators was Samuel Ward of Ipswich who, in 1621, was arrested for his effronteries.

Comment art during the years has been both a result and a cause. It reponds to its times and in turn, by its illumination, affects the subsequent course of history.

As the times became less brutal in the 19th Century, the satire became milder.

The real growth of the social cartoon came when a mgazine called Punch was introduced in England in 1841. The English social scene was illuminated by the greatest artists of the day.

The first great American caricaturist was Ben Franklin. His brother James owned a newspaper called the New England Courant and on its pages appeared Ben's pen and pencil drawings of social comment.

After Franklin, cartooning became chiefly political. Even Gilbert Stuart, the great portrait painter, turned to graphic expression in 1811 with drawings in the Boston Centenel. And after the War of 1812 we saw still more cartoons of dissent.

Thomas Nast created some magnificent political cartoons during America's Civil War. And as the times stablized and people became more prosperous, humor became part of the cartooning scene. It reached maturity in 1925 when a magazine called The New Yorker was born.

Then it wasn't long until Walt Disney's Mickey Mouse cartoons circled the world.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Dean Dunsworth, 9, of Gallup, N.M., for his question:

IS THE PLATYPUS A MAMMAL OR A REPTILE?

Our friend the platypus, who is also called a duckbill, is a water-living mammal. The lady in the family is the only mammal, other than the anteater, who both lays eggs and nurses her young. She lays rubbery eggs that very much resemble those of a reptile. The eggs are deposited in a dug-out spot along the stream bank and they hatch out in about 75 days.

Instead of a snout, the platypus has a skin-covered flat jaw that looks just like the bill of a duck. The man of the family has poison-secreting glands in his hind claws which come in handy when he's fighting. He's about two feet long when he reaches adulthood and has thick, coarse fur. His tail is flat.

Lead sinks club contract

South was rather bitter about the whole thing. As he pointed out to his partner and his opponents in particular and anyone within hearing range, he just had to try for a slam with his tremendous hand.

In any event he wondered why his partner had made a business double with a mere four points.

We will answer that one for North. When your partner opens with a forcing two bid, he expects to continue to game unless a penalty double of an opposing bid offers a chance for a greater profit. Hence, when North doubled West's two-heart bid he was merely showing defense against hearts and not any interest at all in playing at game or slam.

With this in mind, South really should have bid three notrump over East's two spades and taken his nine top tricks.

South was unlucky in not making five clubs. His contract failed because West had listened carefully to the bidding and came to the conclusion that East would not have run from two hearts doubled with more than one heart in his hand. Hence, West opened the ace of hearts and continued in spite of receiving the three from his partner. East ruffed and eventually South lost a diamond trick.

Ask Andy

Caveman drew first of many cartoons

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1977 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Laura Bennett, 12, of Highland, Ind., for her question:

WHEN WAS THE FIRST CARTOON DRAWN?

We enjoy cartooning in our newspapers today. First there's the political cartoon, which is often biting with satire. It is also called the editorial cartoon since it expresses a point of view and makes a strong statement — just as the written editorial does.

And then there's the for-fun comic strips and panels that entertain and amuse.

The first cartoon was drawn by some anonymous artist on the wall of a cave in ancient times. He had something to record and did it in the form of a graphic comment.

As long as man has been putting down his thoughts, he has used the art form to help tell his story. The ancient Egyptians produced some excellent cartoonists, and on the walls of the tombs along the Nile is recorded in picture form the life of the time.

Ancient walls of Pompeii revealed drawings as did the churches of the Middle Ages.

As early as the 13th Century in Europe, savage cartoons were drawn to attack corruption. Wood engraving was known as early as the 1470s, but the first of the broadsheet commentators was Samuel Ward of Ipswich whb, in 1621, was arrested for his effronteries.

Comment art during the years has been both a result and a cause. It reponds to its times and in turn, by its illumination, affects the subsequent course of history.

As the times became less brutal in the 19th Century, the satire became milder.

The real growth of the social cartoon came when a mgazine called Punch was introduced in England in 1841. The English social scene was illuminated by the greatest artists of the day.

The first great American caricaturist was Ben Franklin. His brother James owned a newspaper called the New England Courant and on its pages appeared Ben's pen and pencil drawings of social comment.
